Drudgery, Harsh Word Very Old Crocodile Russia, Two Views Happy Aga Khan

—By Arthur Brisbane—

RAISED by his own effort, from humble workman to British Prime Minister, Ramsay MacDonald gives advice for success that will not attract modern youth.

"Accustom yourself to drudgery.

"Get your heart into your work, whatever it may be, for work without heart is dead.

"Discipline yourself to drudgery, for by that you gain a mastery both over yourself and the world."

That word "drudgery" has a harsh sound. But without drudgery there is no great success, even for genius. Edison's definition of genius, "10 per cent inspiration, 90 per cent perspiration," applies to every form of genius from Paidias to Michelangelo, from Michelangelo to Pasteur.

Sons of great men rarely make a mark in the world. Their fathers' success enables them to escape drudgery.

The American Museum of Natural History includes in treasures recently acquired, the fossil skeleton of a crocodile said by scientists to be fifty million years old.

It seems strange to think of a day 49,988,000 years before the late stone age of man, when that crocodile, with long mouth, low forehead, sluggish movements, was perhaps the most intelligent being on earth.

After trying to digest that, you read in Eddington's "Nature of the Physical World" that matter on the "companion of Sirius weighs about 2000 pounds to the cubic inch."

The high temperature, if you wish an explanation, "breaks up (ionizes) the outer electron systems of the atoms, so that fragments can be packed more closely together."

It is as though our solar system were packed full of suns or planets, instead of having them scattered far apart. The system would weigh more.

Fifty million-year-old crocodiles and crowded atoms make you feel that pure science must be meant for the few.

Russia agrees to withdraw from India propaganda apostles preaching communism in Hindu.

Britain renews full diplomatic and commercial relations, and will lend Russia $60,000,000 to start business going. Which is common sense.

Our Government thinks it is our duty to regulate Russia's government and refuses to recognize Russia.

American big business is wiser. The General Electric Co., of which Gerard Swope is president and Mr. Young chairman of the board, gives Russia credit for more than twenty millions as a start, sells to Russia vast quantities of machinery, including machinery for generating electricity by water power, biggest of its kind ever made.

Henry Ford sends his best engineers abroad to help the Russians organize tractor factories, and gives Russia extensive credits. General Electric and Ford report that Russia is good pay.

It is fortunate that our big business has the common sense that our big Government seems to lack.

The Aga Khan is a most intelligent, enormously rich Asiatic gentleman. Millions of Mohammedans in India recognize him as their religious chief and send him millions of dollars in tribute.

While they turn their faces toward the East and Mecca in prayer, the Aga Khan turns his face toward London and Paris, where he keeps fine racing stables and enjoys life thoroughly.

The Aga Khan is about to marry for the second time; his first wife is dead. The second wife, a Christian, like the first, is a French girl, formerly worker in a candy store, and will not change her religion.

India's Mohammedans will not like that, but their faith keeps them loyal to the Khan.

What Mohammed would say about two racing stables, two Christian wives, art galleries full of pictures and well filled cellars is easy to imagine.

Col. Theodore Roosevelt begins well, as governor of Porto Rico, by seeking to abolish the barefoot habit among natives. Dr. Pabst, learned dermatologist, says going barefoot is especially dangerous in a tropical country, and unwise anywhere.

Hookworm and lockjaw come from walking barefoot, and 40 per cent of adults in this country have "ring worm foot," from the same habit.

Children's feet should be protected by sandals or some other covering, even in the hottest weather, and when bathing.

TREASURY 'RAID' CHARGED BY CURLEY

WOMAN LINKS POLICE TO SLAVERY

Arrested in Medford in Reinstein Case. She Has Secret Phone Numbers

Evidence that white slave traffic is being carried on here, despite the inquiry of the federal forces which resulted from the Reinstein slaying, was seen today in a raid on a Sheafe st., North End, house by police. Louise Anderson, 19, of New York, found there, said she had been in the clutches of white slavers for ten days. Joseph Da Agustino was arrested.

The names of Boston policemen were today linked with the white slave industry through the arrest of Jean Parker, alias Josephine Delfrino.

The Parker woman was taken into custody in Medford in connection with the white slave inquiry resulting from the slaying here of Samuel Reinstein.

Police say she conducted one of the "circuit" houses exposed by the investigation of Dist. Atty. William J. Foley and his chief assistant, Frederick T. Doyle.

FACES FEDERAL CHARGE

At the time of her arrest in a house in Strathmore rd., Medford, federal officials found in her possession the unlisted telephone numbers of two Boston police officials.

The arrest was made by Deputy U. S. Marshal Joseph Winston and federal narcotic agents under the direct supervision of Dr. H. H. Wouter.

Jean Parker was charged in a federal warrant with conspiracy to violate the Mann act, and her capture is considered one of the most important yet made.

She was questioned for three hours in the office of U. S. Attorney Frederick H. Tarr, and was then arraigned before Commissioner Jenney.

FIND STOLEN RUGS

She pleaded not guilty to a conspiracy charge and was held in $5000 for hearing October 16. She had no difficulty in obtaining bail.

In the meantime, Special Officer Joseph Condon and a squad of Medford police visited her house on Strathmore rd., Medford, and seized a dozen Oriental rugs, alleged to have been stolen from Peck & Hill, Cleaveland, Beck & Co., in January. The rugs were valued at $879 and were identified by the manager of the store.

According to police the house which she conducted was one of the biggest money makers on the circuit in Greater Boston, two girls, inmates, having told officials they made $150 and $200 a week, respectively, while there.

Federal officials stated that the unlisted phone numbers in her possession are evidence of a contact between the woman and police and further revelations are expected.

TWO GIRLS SILENT.

An attempt to pit rival gangsters' sweethearts against each other in the effort to unravel the mystery in the slaying of Reinstein failed, it was tacitly admitted in police circles.

The girls, Margaret Wheeler, self-styled "wife" of Reinstein, and Helen, "Jackie the Redhead" Gordon, consort of "Eddie the Duke" Winger, New York racketeer, "ho

M'KECHNIE IS TO PILOT BRAVES

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 7 — Bill McKechnie, manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, will be the next leader of the Boston Braves. This was practically settled at a long conference today between Judge Fuchs and McKechnie. Bill is under contract with the Cards, but owner Sam Breadon has agreed to let him go if he can come to terms with the Boston club.

Judge Fuchs explaining his efforts to get the manager who led both Cardinals and Pirates to championship said:

"I have looked the whole field over and have decided that McKechnie is my man. I wanted some one who knew the National League players, and McKechnie certainly does. I might have talked business with Dan Howley, a good manager, but he is a stranger to the league and I felt I had to have someone who knew it from the start.

I haven't concluded the deal yet, but I hope to shortly."

CONGRESSMEN WILDLY CHEER M'DONALD

"No More War" Speech in the Senate Is Followed by a Great Demonstration

Washington, Oct. 7—For the first time in history, a British prime minister addressed the American Senate today.

Ramsay MacDonald, fresh from concluding an agreement with President Hoover to call a London disarmament conference set forth his aims for international peace from the dais beside Vice-President Curtis.

Referring to the Kellogg-Briand pact for the renunciation of war, the visitor said this would stand out like a monument in history.

"Speakers in my country and speakers in your country have said that war between your country and my country was unthinkable," the Premier continued amid wild applause.

"There can be no more war; it is impossible if we will make the peace pact effective that any arm of our forces, sea, land or air will come in conflict.

"We have come together and said what is all this bother about war-fly," he added. "Parity! Take it."

Take it, without reserve, heaped up and flowing over. That was the only condition under which competitive armaments could be stopped, and we could create a public psychology that would pursue the fruitful and successful avenues of peaceful cooperation. That is one of the results of this visit.

All Americans Should Support High Purpose of Ramsay MacDonald

MR. RAMSAY MacDONALD is a very great prime minister for England and a very valuable influence for the whole world at this time.

He understands the new conditions which have prevailed throughout the world since the great war.

He not only understands those conditions, he is a product of them.

He does not come from the CLASSES who send people to war, he comes from the MASSES who are sent to war.

He realizes perfectly that those masses do not want any more war; that they will not tolerate any more war, and that they have the power to prevent any more war, or to punish those who make war.

He appreciates the obvious, obtrusive fact that if there should be another great war, with its sacrifice of more than ten million men and its destruction of the achievements of centuries, all responsible governments and all established orders and all existing systems would go down in one tremendous crash, and there would be red anarchy in every country in Europe, and doubtless in America, too.

He realizes, too, that in the growing light of civilization, war is going the way of slavery and other dark and dreadful institutions of utter savagery.

Stanley Baldwin was an entirely different kind of a premier. He was a Bourbon who had forgotten nothing from before the war, and learned nothing since the war.

His conservatism was due primarily to confirmed political myopia, to lack of clear vision to see and comprehend new conditions, and lack of imagination to look forward to future developments.

Mr. Baldwin could properly, if not politely, be likened to a man who rides backward in a train and who never sees anything until it is past—except for the plain and painful fact that Mr. Baldwin never saw anything even after it was past.

Mr. Baldwin took absolutely no cognizance of new conditions created by the great war.

He picked up political situations and diplomatic relations not where the great war had left them, but where the great war had found them.

He instituted again the same secret diplomacy, the same militaristic policy, the same balance of power fallacy which had existed before the war and had caused the war, and would

MITTEN RICHES TO AID LABOR

Philadelphia, Oct. 7 (AP)—The estate of Thomas E. Mitten, traction magnate, who was connected with variously estimated from $3,000,000 to $100,000,000, has been left in trust for the promotion and advancement of the cause of cooperation between capital and labor and the furtherance of the continuance of the Mitten Plan.

The Mitten Plan," in operation here between the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co. and its employes and the International Railway Co. of Buffalo and its employes, is described as "providing opportunity for participating in increased earnings made possible by the increased effort of the employes, and to encourage the investment of this added compensation in such a way as to make the employes owners as well as workers."

Employes under the "Mitten Plan" have equal representation in the affairs of the street car company here.

EX-MAYOR IN ATTACK ON BOTTOMLEY

Opposes a Permit for Filling Station at Hearing in City Hall

Intimation that the $1,100,000 matter of widening was not enough for the benefit of private interests was made at City Hall at a hearing before the street commissioners.

Former Mayor James M. Curley declared during a stormy session that a petition for a gasoline station at Wood pl., the Arborway and Centre st., Jamaica Plain, the neighborhood of the late Mayor, is a raid being conducted by Robert J. Bottomley during the closing days of the Nichols administration.

Bottomley was once named the municipal judge to succeed the late former Governor Alvan T. Fuller. Appearing as the representative of Cardinal O'Connell in opposition to the permit, Monsignor Richard H. Haberlin, parish priest of St. Peter's Church, Dorchester, revealed for the first time his own narrow escape from death or serious injury in an automobile accident recently.

PRIEST ESCAPES DEATH

The accident happened the petition proposed as a site for the gasoline station, he said. His car was in collision with an Elevated truck and tipped over.

Had it not been that his car was of a heavy type, he might have been killed, Monsignor Haberlin told the street commissioners, emphasizing the dangers of the location.

Petition for the filling station and permit to store 2000 gallons of gasoline was brought in the name of Capt. Stone Murray. Attorney E. H. Thompson appeared for the petitioners and $1,100,000 widening of Seaver st. from the proposed site to South st. was approved by Mayor Nichols and the City Council and a loan order recently passed to defray the expense.

"I am astounded at the audacity of the owner and petitioner to ask for a commercial enterprise bordering on Boston's park system, former Mayor Curley began.

"I wonder if the $1,100,000 Center st. widening is being put through for the benefit of those interested in the gasoline station."

Turning to Atty. Thompson, he asked, "What interest has Mr. Bottomley in this proposition?"

"I do not know," counsel for the petitioner replied.

"You don't know?" persisted the former mayor. "Everybody else does."

BRANDS MOVE A "RAID."

"I am firmly convinced that the time has almost arrived for the addition of new parkways along Boston's park system for the protection of our public parks.

"Mr. Bottomley and other gentlemen want this petition to go through. They are not interested in the beauty of the park system nor in the safety of the public. It is simply a raid taking place during the last days of the administration."

To the street commissioners Curley said: "No doubt there will be pressure brought to bear upon you gentlemen. I know that under the pressure represented today there is only one just conclusion to draw. Remember, gentlemen, that Mr. Nichols is no longer Mayor of Boston—not Mr. Bottomley."

"I shall make a personal appeal to Mayor Nichols to prevent the petition from being granted. It is about time to stop raiders and promoters from seizing this location."

Monsignor Haberlin said the location to be the most dangerous spot in Boston. The petitioners, he said, held commercialism above beauty of surroundings and human life.

Typist Asks $200,000 in Love Suit

Providence, R. I., Oct. 7—That she obtained a divorce from her husband so that she might be free to marry her employer, Edwin F. Cary, wealthy real estate operator, was testified in Superior Court today by Mrs. Grace L. Sanctuary, typist, in her $200,000 breach of promise suit. She testified Cary urged her to obtain a divorce.

Mrs. Sanctuary said her employer told of her he expected to be divorced as an action was then pending, and he wanted her to be free so that she could remarry.

While the striking blonde plaintiff gave this testimony, her children, Jane and Harriet, 10 and 13 years of age, sat in court nearby, listening.

Shortly after she entered Cary's employ as stenographer, Mrs. Sanctuary testified, he called her to his private office and said: "You are a wonderful girl and I'm going to kiss you."

She said she did so, although she remonstrated. Later, he called at her home and she played "Perfect Day" and Bartlett's "Dream" for him at his request.

As the jury was being impanelled, and later, while her coun-

M'DONALD'S 'NO MORE WAR' SPEECH THRILLS SENATE GALLERY

PREMIER IS GUEST OF CONGRESS

Addresses Both Houses, Telling of His Mission Here for World Peace

world, especially when neither of us will form any alliance toward any other nation on the face of the earth.

The prime minister explained that his mission in coming to the United States in person was "to wipe out all misunderstandings."

"So long as we conduct negotiations by correspondence across 3000 miles of water we will never understand each other at all," he declared.

"Down deep in my heart there is a conviction that nothing will ever remove the many little misunderstandings like a personal visit."

TRIBUTE TO STRESEMANN

Of coming in good faith on that misunderstanding may be completely cleared away.

The Labor Premier paid tribute to the late Chancellor Gustav Stresemann of Germany.

"He was my personal friend," he said. "He was honest, he was honorable and played a perfectly straight game."

Premier MacDonald paid his visit to Congress soon after returning with President Hoover and party from his President's Virginia camp.

He reached the Capitol about noon and he proceeded first to the Senate where he was greeted by Chairman Porter of the Foreign Affairs Committee and Rep. Linthicum of Maryland, Democratic leader.

The Premier, Sir Esme Howard, British ambassador, and party were escorted to the Speaker's office for brief visits by Speaker Longworth and Rep. Hadley, of Washington, who was speaker pro tem for the day.

The House chaplain, the Rev. James Shera Montgomery, in opening the session prayed for world peace and a better understanding not only between Great Britain and the United States, but among all nations.

The House adjourned immediately and the Premier was escorted into the chamber by Porter and Linthicum.

SPEAKS IN HOUSE

Applause swelled on tongues as he was introduced by Speaker Longworth, reading in Representative Griffin of Connecticut, Republican leader.

Addressing his audience as "fellow members of Congress," Mr. MacDonald said he had been paid a very high honor by being permitted to greet them. It was a unique experience, other than in Washington, he said.

After a period of several minutes he stepped down into the big well of the house, where the members are grouped in front of the speaker.

Watching from the gallery was Miss Isabel MacDonald, who wore a gray suit with almost invisible diagonal stripings and a dark red hat. Lady Isabella Howard, wife of the British ambassador, was in white with white blouse and white hat.

Leaving the House, the Premier walked through a lane of applauding men and women lining the long corridor and through the Hall of Fame and the rotunda to the Senate side.

MRS. CAIN WITH MRS. TAFT.

He was escorted to the Vice-President's room and greeted by Senator Watson of Indiana, Republican leader, and Senator Swanson of Virginia, Democratic leader. Both spoke briefly. Dennis, son of the foreign relations committee.

He was in the Senate chamber for about 15 minutes.

The Senate stood in recess. The Senate and House will meet again in the afternoon, when Mrs. Dolly Curtis, widow of the Vice-President, will be the Vice-President's guest with Mrs. William Howard Taft.

At the White House, Miss MacDonald is the diplomatic girl [illegible] Howard.

Vice-President Curtis welcomed the British statesman as a representative of "a great people" and expressed the belief that he visit would result in bringing about an agreement on the naval question.

After the Premier's speech he was escorted to the front of the platform and cheered amid another outburst of applause.

State Dinner Tonight

The Premier began to shake his hand. Upon leaving the Capitol he returned to the White House for luncheon with President Hoover. Tonight will be the State banquet at the White House.

President Hoover and Premier MacDonald joined today in expressing gratification over progress in disarmament since the world war cause Anglo-American friction.

The heads of the two great nations expressed their views in a joint statement issued shortly after their return from the Hoover camp.

The statement read:

"We have frankly reviewed all questions that might give rise to friction between our peoples. Gratifying progress has been made and the conversations are continuing."

Japanese Naval Expert on Way to Washington

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 7 (AP)—Carrying with him the plans for Japan's participation in the world naval parley announced by President Hoover and Premier MacDonald, Commander T. Yamaguchi of the Japanese navy boarded a train here for Washington.

He had arrived in Vancouver, B. C., from Japan, just in time to make connections with the fast Northern train here.

He was surprised that the announcement of the conference had been made and indicated modified invitations would be sent out in some time.

Yamaguchi will be one of the naval experts representing the government at the conference. It is acknowledged that his mission is known to the British ambassador in Washington certain strategic Japan would adopt at the conference.

FEAR CULT GIRL WAS 'HUMAN SACRIFICE'

Woman and Foster Parents Held as Body Is Found Buried Under Floor

Los Angeles, Oct. 7 (INS)—Mystic records of a strange medieval religious cult today were under scrutiny of police working on the theory that "Princess" Willa Rhoads, 19, met her death as a human sacrifice.

Police found the girl's body beneath the floor of her parents' Venice residence. She had been dead four years, her body carefully hidden under floors of several different homes her foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Rhoads, have occupied. There were no indications of violence.

Beside her steel casket was another containing the remains of seven puppies, which, according to the order's belief, represented the seven tones of Gabriel's trumpet proclaiming resurrection.

WOMAN IS ARRESTED

Willa was known as the "Tree of Life," according to Mrs. Rhoads, who admitted the girl's body was kept so her resurrection might generate a new religion. The cult is called The Divine Order of the Royal Arms."

Mrs. May Blackburn, cult head, is held on fraud charges.

Mrs. Rhoads, terming herself the "New Road to Freedom," declared throat infection caused her daughter's death, saying her passing was a necessary event leading to the resurrection.

Mrs. Rhoads said the resurrection was to occur upon completion of a book written by Mrs. Blackburn.

Rhoads, a carpenter, admitted he and another member buried the body and he helped police unearth the coffin.

OIL MAN COMPLAINS

The body of the "princess" was wrapped in a white sheet and a blanket and was almost perfectly preserved, due to spices and embalming fluids.

The inquiry was begun at the request of Clifford R. Dabney, wealthy oil-operator of Venice, who charges Mrs. Blackburn obtained $40,000 from him.

Dabney, declaring he became a member of the original cult in 1921, said the colony based its beliefs on a book to be known as "The Sixth Seal," which was being written by Mrs. Blackburn. Police said "healing rites" described by Dabney were performed over Miss Rhoads' body.

No criminal charges have been filed against Mr. and Mrs. Rhoads or other members of the cult. The parents are subject to prosecution on a charge of failing to report a death and also of attempting a private burial, police say.

The cult has been in existence almost six years according to Mrs. Blackburn. She asserted there were no mysterious ceremonials and said the object of the organization was "for the study of resurrection."

A Tiny Victim of Fate

NURSES CARING FOR INFANT FOUNDLING

Infant Found on Scoby Hospital Grounds Weighs 6½ Pounds and Is Healthy

Supposing some one wrapped you up in a pillow case and stuffed you into a paper coal bag and then left you in a vacant lot.

And then what if you were carried to a big building where white-capped grown-ups dressed you in warm clothes and put you in a nice, white bed. And besides that, you only had a number instead of a name.

You'd kind of wonder what it was all about, wouldn't you?

That's probably just what the 24-hour-old, blue-eyed baby girl at the City Hospital is thinking about now.

She was found in her strange attire lying on the grounds of the old Scobey Hospital at Moreland and Fairland sts., Roxbury, and carried to the hospital.

No one up to the present time has come to inquire for her, and no one except the nurses and doctors in Ward 1 seems to care what happens to her. The male nurse on the bed-ridden floor, who saw the baby brought in, turned away in disgust to attend to what he thought was a more interesting accident case.

But the nurses and doctors are all with the little stranger. She weighs six pounds seven ounces, and is in perfectly normal health. Her new friends think she was born some time Saturday.

IRISH LEADER IS HONORED

spoke briefly to newspapermen, commenting particularly upon the significance of the skyscraper architecture in American cities.

He was enthusiastic about the beauty of Boston's Public Garden. He said:

"The skyscraper is the product of the American school of architecture and is the only American expression of art. However, it is being copied today in Continental Europe. Germany, Italy and several other countries, now planning to build them. They are also planning to build them as high as you people do here in America."

The mayor also diplomatically broke with Dr. J. F. O'Hegarty, a member of the Irish Parliament and W. J. Burke, secretary of the Government party.

"It is wonderful to have a beautiful garden like this right in the business section of the city," Fitzgerald said. "It reminds one of a continental city to have anything like Boston would remind me of Dublin, also, and I would like to have plenty of time to see it."

The party has visited New York, Washington, Baltimore and Chicago and the latter city made the greatest impression on them. "But of course, we can't include Boston in our judgment, for we have only been here a few hours," Fitzgerald said.

Sentences "Swell" as a "Panhandler"

Attired in "what the well-dressed man will wear," Raymond Ward, 28, of Gainsborough, Boston, in East Cambridge Court today on a charge of vagrancy was sentenced to the State Farm. He carried a pearl gray hat and wore well-tailored clothes.

Traffic Officer Gormley of Cambridge testified Ward had tried to "panhandle" $1.10 from a motorist an on a pretext of wanting to go to Lowell.

Court records showed Ward had been arrested on similar charges in Brooklyn, N. Y., Fall River and Salem. Judge Arthur B. Sherburne held him in $1000 when he appealed.

ist Amy John Regan was outlining her case to the jurors, Mrs. Sanctuary, sat unperturbed, within the bar enclosure.

Mrs. Sanctuary was nearly attired in dark blue ensemble, with hat to match, presenting a striking picture.

TOLD TO "GET DIVORCE"

How Mr. Cary entertained Mrs. Sanctuary in his sumptuously appointed camps, "The Love Nest" and "The Port of Missing Men" in Smithfield, a short distance from this city, will be told during the trial, according to the opening address of her attorney.

In outlining his client's case, Attorney Regan said:

In 1924 Mrs. Sanctuary was living apart from her husband, supporting herself and two young daughters, Jane and Harriet, as a stenographer. She entered Mr. Cary's employ in 1923 in the capacity of stenographer.

Shortly after entering his employ he manifested an interest in her and called upon her in her home. He also became attentive to her daughters. Mrs. Sanctuary and Mr. Cary were later divorced Mr. Cary urged Mrs. Sanctuary to obtain a divorce and told her he would marry her if she did.

On April 10, 1925, she accepted his offer of marriage and they made plans for marriage and a honeymoon. They also arranged for a home.

While waiting for the ceremony to take place Mrs. Sanctuary moved into an apartment in an apartment house owned by Mr. Cary, as he desired that she should be more comfortable.

WAS GUEST AT CAMPS

He also entertained her at his camps called The Love Nest and The Port of Missing Men," both of which were in Smithfield. My client will tell you of the manner in which she was entertained at these camps by Mr. Cary.

"During the latter part of 1924 Mr. Cary became cool toward Mrs. Sanctuary and finally broke the engagement as the date they set for the marriage approached. She was ill a long time because of the broken engagement and she will tell you just how the act affected her."

The court room was crowded as Mrs. Sanctuary's counsel outlined her case.

Mrs. Sanctuary, on taking the witness stand, said:

"On Feb. 28, 1924, shortly after I had entered Mr. Cary's employ, he called me to his private office and asked me to sit down. He expressed an interest in my children. Then he asked me if I went to dances.

SAYS HE KISSED HER

"When I told him that I did not go to dances he got up, stepped toward me and said, 'You are a wonderful girl and I am going to kiss you.' I was sitting down at the time. I remonstrated, but he succeeded in kissing me. Then I left.

"On March 7, following, he asked me to step into the office closed, if he could call at my home. I said he might. He called that evening at 8:30 and met the children.

"How did you spend the time that evening?" asked her attorney.

"I played the piano."

"What did you play?"

"I do not know whether he liked classical or some other kind of music, so I asked him what he liked. He replied 'I'd like to have you play 'Perfect Day.' I did so while he sat on the piano bench beside me.

WAGNER, LACEY FIRST IN DERBY

Portland, Me., Oct. 7 (AP)—Reuben Wagner, Omaha, in a Boesing, and Steve Lacey in a Cessna, were the first of the entries in the 1929 air tour to cross the finish line here shortly before noon, after a flight from Montreal today.

The two planes soared across the line almost neck and neck.

George W. Haldeman, who piloted Ruth Elder in her transatlantic attempt, followed in a Bellanca a few seconds later. Russell Young, in a Ryan monoplane was fourth to arrive.

Two official planes, one carrying newspaper representatives, were next to reach the airport.

The judges placed Wagner as first to cross the finish line three-fifths of a second ahead of Lacey. The arrival was timed at 11:56:51.

Tornado Hits Two South Africa Towns

Johannesburg, Union of South Africa, Oct. 7 (AP)—A tornado of unprecedented violence struck the suburbs of Turffontein and Kenilworth. Three persons were seriously injured.

Roofs were blown off hundreds of houses. The full force of the storm struck Solly Joel's stables, sheltering a number of valuable English race horses. Two automobiles broken legs and had to be destroyed. Two others were injured.

Lorillard Co. Boosts Price of Cigarets

New York, Oct. 7 (AP)—P. Lorillard & Co. announced today that effective immediately it has advanced the wholesale price on its leading brand of cigarettes from $6.10 to $6.40 a thousand. This advance brings the price of the Lorillard product into line with those of three other leading cigarette manufacturers who announced price increases Saturday.

Smith Silent on "Offer" of Big Job

New York, Oct. 7 (AP)—Former Governor Alfred E. Smith declined today to comment on the proposal of Fiorello H. La Guardia, Republican candidate for mayor, to invite him, if elected, to head a commission to reorganize the city government.

La Guardia said New York's one big need was an entire reorganization of its municipal government. He remarked that, when he was Governor, named Charles E. Hughes, a Republican, to reorganize the State government.

"I will follow the lead of Governor Smith," said the candidate. "I will ask for the creation of a committee of citizens, regardless of party, who understand the city government, and offer the chairmanship to Smith."

Prince of Wales as Boy Hurled Wet Sponges at Guests in Palace Ballroom, New Biography Reveals

By ROBERT WELLES RITCHIE

London.

Drowned sheep, earl impersonators, and [illegible] 7-H. R. H., the Prince of Wales, who for many years has held the place of honor in the hearts of the world's flappers, one time found his chief enjoyment in dropping wet sponges on the heads of his fathers and mother's guests in the ballroom of Buckingham Palace.

Davy, as he was called then and his brother, Jam who is the Duke of York, used to lay on this stunt with sponges from the bathroom, and then scamper back to bed well satisfied with their evening's work.

NEVER A MOLLYCODDLE.

This and much more of the intimate life of "Edward P." is told in the biography of the Prince of Wales just published this week in London.

W. and L. Townsend, northcountry journalists, are the authors of this new book, which bids fair to be a best-seller, and it is under the critical eye of Sir Godfrey Thomas, the Prince's private secretary, before going to press.

Stories of the Prince's early life reveal he was anything but a mollycoddle.

His great-grandmother, Queen Victoria, made much of the youngster, and it was she who pinned the name Davy on him, but neither the influence of England's great queen, nor that of "Edward P.s" mother could restrain the fine animal spirits of the youngster, destined by birth some day to be a king and emperor.

TREATS THE TSAR

Not only did he drop wet sponges on the heads of his parents' guests, but on his new bicycle Davy played Dickie and Dolly with the flower beds at Sandringham. It was Davy, also, who was found to be the culprit when one of his father's equerries could not find his helmet on an important occasion.

In 1909, when the all-mighty Tsar Nicholas of Russia was paying a visit to his uncle, King Edward, the Prince of Wales was then a cadet at the Military School of Sandhurst.

Here, the Prince undertook to introduce the royal personage from Russia to all of his friends at the popular confectionery store.

The unfortunate Tsar of Russia politely underwent a formula of eating with half a dozen cadets and he returned to the Tsarina complaining bitterly of indigestion.

Prince Edward's second year at Oxford ended a few weeks before the Great War began—a war that was to make him known to and respected by millions from all parts of the empire. As a lieutenant in the Grenadier Guards, he was ordered to be sent to the front. In reply to Lord Kitchener's warning of danger, he asked:

"Have I not four brothers?"

To which Kitchener answered:

"If I were certain you would be shot, I do not know if I should be right to restrain you. What I cannot permit is the chance, which exists until we have a settled line, of the army securing you as a prisoner! You have a lot to learn about soldiering yet. When you have learnt a bit more—perhaps then you may go to France!"

The day soon came when he was allowed to go. He was to serve as aide-de-camp to Sir John French, but there was no keeping him safe at G. H. Q.

The Prince shared all the discomforts of the war zone and much of its perils. Long after, when the Prince, as a director of the Welsh Guards Comrades' Association, had dismissed the house of having fought with the guards, Major Dudley replied:

"It all depends on what you call fighting. I can remember when we were in the Houthhurst forest; on the top of the hill we had a lot of trouble with a heavy French gun which had shelled us all day.

"We sent messages to say we were being shelled by the French but nobody paid any attention. We sent out runners and got a reply that we ought to know the difference between German and French guns.

"Suddenly we saw two figures coming along the hill. One of them was the Prince of Wales. When he got half-way up the hill the shells fell all around him, completely hiding him from view.

"Col. Sterling, who was commanding the battalion, said: 'My God! They've got him!' But they had not, for we saw him legging it through falling mud to a little German pill box we had taken shortly before."

When the war ended the Prince began his remarkable series of [illegible]s tours.

BUSINESSLIKE MAN

Of the Prince's private life the authors tell us something. The prince is businesslike and methodical.

The Prince, when at home, commences work on the stroke of ten a. m. The rooms on the ground floor of York House have been turned into a suite of offices, where his staff is housed.

The Prince himself has a remarkably large amount of clerical work to perform. His mail is very large and his private secretary attention each morning, necessitating the personal attention of the Prince and his private secretary.

His Royal Highness keeps a strict eye upon the expenses of his household.

The Prince, we are told, smokes a pipe. Whether all readers will agree with the authors' contention that pipe-smokers are less nervous and irritable than cigarette smokers is perhaps doubtful.

The Prince also has a keen sense of humor.

He is reputed to keep an album containing reports of his various impending "engagements" to this or that suitable bride.

Two Score in Peril as Engineer Drops Dead at His Throttle

SUCCUMBS AS TRAIN NEARS STATION

Veteran Rail Man Is Stricken After He Whistles His Approach to North Cohasset

The lives of two score passengers on a Boston bound train of the New Haven were endangered today when the engineer died at the throttle as the train pulled into the North Cohasset railroad station.

When the train failed to stop at the station, Fireman A. W. Read of Braintree looked over and saw the crumpled body of his engineer, A. C. Joyce of Cohasset. He set the brakes and stopped the train a short distance past the station.

The train was running on time from Greenbush and just before the train came to North Cohasset Engineer Joyce sounded the whistle for a crossing. He set the brakes and the train slowed down.

Just as the train reached the platform, where approximately 20 passengers were waiting, Read noticed that Joyce was not bringing the train to a stop. The train continued for about 150 yards past the station before Read could stop it.

Read then backed the train to the station and trainmen carried the body out of the cab. Medical Examiner J. A. Peterson pronounced death due to a shock, caused by a clot of blood on the brain.

A. L. Tellier, working as a fireman on a southbound freight train though a qualified engineer, was transferred to the local and brought the train into the South Station 10 minutes late.

Joyce had been employed by the New Haven for 38 years, entering the service as a fireman. He was promoted to engineer in 1912.

Two West End Hammer Beating Suspects Held

Photo shows suspects held by the police in connection with the beating with a hammer of Alfred Downing, 32, erstwhile racketeer and gangster. Five men were picked up by the police, who found Downing's body lying in Temple st. near the State House. Downing named five men as his attackers. They were picked up by the police, two charged with assault and two held as material witnesses. The men held for assault were Charles Kaplan, South End, and Burt Carney of Bowdoin st. William McCredie and Albert Anderson were held as material witnesses. The fifth suspect was released.

PANTAGES PINS HOPE ON CLAIM GIRL LIES

17-Year-Old Accuser Back on the Stand in a Bitter Defense Grilling

Los Angeles, Oct. 7—A severe, all day grueling faced Eunice Pringle 17, accuser of Alexander Pantages at the opening of the sixth day of the multimillion theatre magnate's trial on a statutory charge.

Defense attorneys indicated they expected to continue cross-examination of the girl, begun Friday, through most of the day.

Testifying under the expert direction of District Attorney Fitts Miss Pringle has told reluctantly but in minute detail, of the attack she accuses Pantages of making upon her August 9 when she visited his office, seeking booking of her dance act on his vaudeville circuit.

Under a withering fire of questions hurled at her by Defense Attorney Geisler the slim young dancer stuck to her previous accounts of the alleged attack, but sobbed frequently as Geisler forced her for details and approached hysteria as she told of falling to the floor, fainting, after struggle in which "I kicked him with all my ability."

Pantages may take the stand in an effort to prove Eunice's story of the attack is an invention.

Geisler had little success, for the girl met his every question unfalteringly.

WHAT PRICE IS DIVORCE? MAY BE $1,900,000

Kerens Heir Has Kept Pledge as Decreed, but Wedding Involves Him

St. Louis, Oct. 7—The Federal Court here will be called on this fall to decide whether a divorce Vincent Kerens obtained in 1924 will cost him $1,900,000 inherited from his father's estate by virtue of five years of "sobriety and good behavior."

The son of Richard C. Kerens, St. Louis railroad magnate and one-time ambassador to Austria-Hungary once was a notable figure in St. Louis society. Now his attorneys say he has been a model boy during the intervening years.

His father died in 1919 and his will provided Vincent should receive one-third of a $7,000,000 estate upon completing five consecutive years of unstinted sobriety and good behavior. Two sisters and another brother were the beneficiaries.

DECORATED IN WAR

Becoming a soldier of fortune he served in the aviation corps during the World War, later joining the British service. Sent to Siberia, he was decorated for valor three times.

At home Kerens entered the brokerage business in Texas and "walked the straight and narrow," according to affidavits.

Officers of the St. Louis Union Trust Co. still trustees of his inheritance, last year decided he had earned his share as specified. They took steps to end the trusteeship. Then Kerens' past rose as an obstacle.

His sisters, Mrs. Madeline Kenna of New York and London, and Mrs. Gladys Colket of Philadelphia, stated in an intervening action that he had violated the Roman Catholic Church law by divorcing his first wife and later remarrying.

CHARGE BAD FAITH

Their petitions referred to Vincent's divorce from Mrs. Jane Henry Kerens, whom he had married amid social pomp in 1900. He had shown bad faith, they contended, in going to an "obscure country town" to bring the action.

The sisters, beneficiaries in event of Vincent's death, also said they were not represented before directors of the trust company at a hearing when it was decided to terminate the trusteeship.

FOUR HELD IN SLUGGING

While Alfred Downing, alleged ex-convict, gangster and racketeer, lay near death at the Haymarket Relief Station today, police held two prisoners charged with assault upon him with intent to kill.

Two other men were held as material witnesses. All faced more serious charges in the event of the victim's failure to live.

According to the authorities Downing was slugged and left to die in a Temple st. gutter. A falling out between underworld mates was believed to have caused the assault.

Those under arrest were Charles Kaplan of Templeton st., Bartolomew Carney of Bowdoin st., William McCreedy of the Hotel Royal and Alfred Nadeau of Bowdoin st., all of the West End.

Kaplan and Carney were held in bail of $5000 each on the assault with intent to kill charge. McCreedy and Nadeau were held in $200 each as material witnesses. Hearing was set for Oct. 17.

The possibility that Downing may be Alfred Downey, a native of Maine, was suggested in despatches from Eastport today. Downey, it was said, lived in Eastport most of his life until several years ago, when his mother moved to an isolated farm at Pembroke, near that city. His father is dead, but there are several brothers and sisters. Since he was a boy Downey was known as "Sharkey."

Cheer Bay State Man Facing Death Trial

Reading, Eng., Oct. 7 (AP)—Philip Y. Drew of Massachusetts, an actor held in connection with the death of Alfred Oliver, a tubercular here, made one of the most dramatic entrances in his long theatrical career when he arrived in court today to testify at the inquest into Oliver's death.

Oliver was found fatally injured on June 22, and testimony was offered to show that Drew had been near a shop about the time Oliver was injured.

Drew was wildly applauded by a large crowd which had gathered at the entrance of the court. When he arrived, women shouted "good luck, don't be downhearted."

Drew took the cheers smilingly like a veteran showman. He is now writing a stage thriller dealing with the story of a man who is under suspicion for a crime and constantly disguises himself to escape arrest until he can prove his innocence. Drew hopes to star in his play himself.

He said the play did not make a happy ending, "the man finally goes mad from the ordeal of being under suspicion."

DOUBLE GUARD FOR PRISONERS

Providence, Oct. 7—Because of the recent outbreak in Colorado prison, unusual precautions were taken today by Sheriff Jonathan Andrews when 10 men were removed from the county jail in Cranston to the Superior court house here to answer indictments. The grand jury, which has been in session three weeks, reported its findings today.

A double guard was placed on all motor vehicles transporting the men and as a further precaution against any attempt to escape each van was followed by another automobile containing three deputy sheriffs with riot guns ready for instant use.

Six deputy sheriffs were on guard in the courtrooms and two stood outside, all armed and ready for any emergency. The public was excluded from the courtroom, only lawyers, newspapermen and persons having definite business there being permitted to remain.

ASKS LAW TO HIT RUM BUYER

Washington, Oct. 7 (AP)—Amendment of the Volstead act to make the purchase of intoxicating liquor for beverage purposes prohibited under law was proposed in a bill introduced today by Senator Sheppard, Democrat, Texas, the sponsor of the 18th amendment.

Senator Sheppard's proposal would make the purchaser equally punishable with the manufacturer or seller of intoxicants. He said the amendment was necessary because of a recent court decision which held that the purchaser was not liable in connection with an act of transportation.

He said he had been under the impression that the purchase of liquor for beverage purposes was punishable in connection with an act of transportation but that the decision made it advisable to definitely prohibit purchase by the terms of the Volstead act.

SON TAKES OATH ON 'T. R.' BIBLE

San Juan, Porto Rico, Oct. 7 (AP)—With his hands resting on the Bible with which his father took the oath as President of the United States, Col. Theodore Roosevelt today sworn to uphold the laws of Porto Rico and the Constitution of the United States as Governor of the island.

The Governor's ship arrived an hour late, owing to headwinds, and the actual inaugural ceremony took place partly in a heavy downpour of rain. Roosevelt continued to speak, saying, "We don't mind a little rain, do we?" But the bad weather dampened his ardor to the extent of preventing him from making his speech in both English and Spanish, as he had intended. After a paragraph in English, which he repeated in Spanish with apologies for his pronunciation, a great shout came from his hearers.

During the storm the emplifiers ceased to work. Mrs. Roosevelt sat nearby. She was unable to dodge the raindrops that came through the palm covering of the platform.

Funeral Tomorrow for Jeanne Eagels

Kansas City, Oct. 7 (AP)—The body of Jeanne Eagels, Broadway actress and motion picture star, who died in New York Thursday, today rested in Kansas City, her old home, while relatives gathered for the funeral.

Burial will be in Calvary cemetery tomorrow morning, after services at a funeral chapel and in St. Vincent's Catholic Church.

Tilson Sees Further Recesses for House

Washington, Oct. 7 (AP)—Upon his return to the Capitol, Representative Tilson of Connecticut, Republican leader, said today he expected to present plan of three-day recesses to continue until October 28, and that then other committees would be organized.

So far in the special session the ways and means, agriculture, rules and insurance have been the only committees called together.

Noted Dye Man Dead

Stamford, Conn., Oct. 7 (INS)—Gen. William Wheelwright Skiddy, president of the Stamford Mfg. Co., died at his house here at midnight of heart disease.

FALL IS ILL, BUT TRIAL GOES ON

Washington, Oct. 7 (AP)—Although his attorney had announced Albert B. Fall's health would not permit him to stand trial, the former Interior Secretary today appeared in court to answer charges of bribery growing out of the Elks Hills, Cal., payal oil reserve lease.

Frank Hogan, Fall's chief counsel, said the former Cabinet officer would not ask for a postponement despite his ill health.

Fall was helped to his seat by members of his family and Dr. H. T. Safford, his physician. Members of the family said Dr. Safford had advised the secretary not to appear in court, but he had refused to follow his recommendation.

Shortly after Fall's appearance Justice Hitz of the District of Columbia Supreme Court overruled the former Interior Secretary's motion to dismiss the bribery indictment on the ground it constituted double jeopardy.

The termination of the case will decide whether the oil man will be tried on the same charge, as an indictment charging bribery was also returned against him.

Four of the five committee members belong to the Democrats and Republic Independent groups opposed to the pending tariff bill. Reported lobbying activities in connection with this measure are expected to receive first attention.

Inquiry into these reports undoubtedly would include the work of the Senate Finance Committee which drafted the tariff bill. A number of Independent Republicans recently have expressed dissatisfaction over the Republican membership of the committee, contending it has been made up of regular Republicans.

LOBBY PROBE BOARD NAMED

Washington, Oct. 7 (AP)—A subcommittee of five, headed by Senator Caraway, Democrat, Arkansas, was named today by Chairman Norris of the Senate Judiciary Committee, to conduct the lobby investigation.

The four other members are Senators Walsh, Democrat, Montana; Borah, Idaho; Robinson, Indiana, and Blaine, Wisconsin, Republicans.

SPEEDY TRIAL IS PROMISED

White Plains, N. Y., Oct. 7—We are going to push this case ahead. There will be no delay in the prosecution of this murder."

This was the statement made by Dist. Atty. Frank H. Coyne who is questioned on his reaction to a telegram sent Governor Roosevelt by citizens of Haverhill, Mass., asking for a speedy trial of Antimenio Kanelopoulos of Long Island City, who shot and killed Nicholas Philos, of Mount Vernon, and former resident of Haverhill.

The resolution sent to the governor expressed a "lack of confidence" in the Westchester prosecution and was regularly supposed to hit at the recent Peacock trial and sentence.

Philos, or Fillias, as he is known in Massachusetts, is said to be a close friend, of former Governor Fuller and connected with various clubs, lodges and offices there.

Red Cross Regional Conference Meets

Springfield, Oct. 7—Miss Mabel T. Boardman, second vice chairman of the central committee of the American Red Cross at Washington, was the principal speaker today on the program of the allday regional conference now attended by delegates from Red Cross chapters throughout Western Massachusetts.

Miss Boardman spoke on the development of volunteer work in the chapters. She is national director of that course.

The delegates were welcomed to Springfield by Mayor F. C. Parker. Bishop Thomas Frederick Davies delivered the opening invocation.

Another regional conference is to be held at Andover Wednesday, with President Alfred E. Stearns of the academy and Eliot Wadsworth, national Red Cross delegates, as speakers.

Hub Man to Head Safety Council

The National Safety Council at its annual meeting in Chicago elected C. E. Pettibone, of Boston, president for the coming year.

Mr. Pettibone has been actively identified with the safety movement for 20 years and is one of the founders of the movement. He is vice-president and general manager of the engineering department of the American Mutual Liability Insurance Co. of Boston.

Williams Explains Cotton Price View

Washington, Oct. 7 (AP)—Civil Williams of Oklahoma, cotton adviser of the Federal Farm Board, said today he had no idea of conveying the impression in his testimony before the Senate Agriculture committee last week that a fair price for cotton would be from a cent to a cent and a quarter more than at present.

Two Missing Girls Are Safe in Ohio

Springfield, Oct. 7 (AP)—Word received today from Hicksville, Ohio, and Miss Needleman, of whom a telegram was sent by the A. P. here a week ago yesterday stating they were with Mrs. Mary Cohen, of Springfield, Ohio, at Cleveland, disposes of theories held by Y. W. C. LINDY' FINDS A MAYA CITY

Belize, British Honduras, Oct. 7 (AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, flying over the eastern coast of Yucatan peninsula, discovered hitherto unknown to science.

Radio messages from Lindbergh's plane gave only meager details. The party included Mrs. Lindbergh, a pretty figure in khaki knickers and pith helmet.

They saw the first Yucatan settlements, primitive villages of the Indian race. As the giant plane circled above them the natives fled in all directions, seeking cover from the strange bird from another world as strange to them, probably as the coming of the white men to the minions of Montezuma 400 years ago.

The territory in which the ruined city was discovered is in what is known as northern Petén, a district which, it is believed from the white man before this set his eyes. Lindbergh completed a preliminary survey and it was from this that he took some pictures.

Weather permitting, the party planned today to fly from Belize, on a course plotted diagonally across the divisions of Yucatan and Quintana Roo, covering the second major unexplored Maya area. It was thought probable other ruins hitherto undiscovered might be seen.

CONSUMERS TO HAVE VOICE ON TARIFF RATES

Washington, Oct. 7 (INS)—The novel proposal for giving the consumer of the country a voice in the deliberations of the U. S. Tariff Commission was pending in the Senate today as administration forces awaited a general assault on the industrial sections of the new tariff bill.

A plan for creating the office of "consumers' counsel" as an adjunct to the tariff commission was sponsored by Senator George (D.) of Georgia.

He suggested the President be authorized to choose a consumers' attorney for the post at a salary of $12,000 a year. The counsel's duties would be to see that the consuming public, heretofore voiceless and unrepresented in any change of tariff duties, would participate in the commission's deliberations.

This proposal furnished the material for a skirmish in the tariff war and while it was opposed by administration leaders, they showed little interest in the outcome. The Republican leadership was more concerned about the pending motion of Senator Thomas of Oklahoma, for recommitment of the bill to the Senate finance committee with instructions that all industrial rates be eliminated.

If such motion should carry, it would leave the tariff bill bereft of industrial rates and containing only the administrative features and the agricultural schedule.

BISHOP GIVES PRISON SERMON

The value of forgiveness and the danger of hatred was stressed by Bishop Charles L. Slattery of the Episcopal diocese of Massachusetts in a sermon to 375 inmates of the state prison at Charlestown.

He was the preacher at a special service arranged by the prison chaplain, the Rev. William Bradley Whitney, and participated in by the prison officials, and the Rev. George W. Bargent.

Choosing as his topic "God's Forgiveness," the bishop asserted that Divine forgiveness comes to a man as sunlight comes from the sky. Calling attention to the fact that a mother seems to like her wayward son with a love that moves her to forgive his sins.

Bishop Slattery likened to that forgiveness the unexpressed forgiveness of God. "It comes at all times and it is always here for you to receive. Man can forgive even the man who has murdered his son and there can be no measuring of God's forgiveness."

Hoover Waterways Plan to Be Rushed

Washington, Oct. 7 (AP)—Army orders issued today indicate, though transfers of engineer corps officers, that President Hoover's decentralization plan of developing inland and Great Lakes waterways is to be put into effect at once.

The War Department had no comment to make, but it was believed in some quarters the transfers constituted the first step in this direction. The decentralization program contemplates selection of three engineers, one to be in charge of the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence development, and a third directing his time to the upper Mississippi.

Mystery Fliers Are in Air on 8th Day

Chicago, Oct. 7 (AP)—With the halfway mark only two days away, the "Chicago, We Will" continued to cruise in circles above Skokie harbor Airport today in its fourth attempt to surpass the 421-hour refueling endurance record of the "St. Louis Robin." At 9:30 a. m. the "Chicago, We Will" passed the 171st hour in the air.

The flight promoters still declined to disclose the identities of the plane's pilots.

Aviation Holds Oil Men's Big Interest

Tulsa, Okla., Oct. 7 (AP)—An annual request which attracts oil men from every part of the globe when the Tulsa Chamber of Commerce, the International Petroleum Exposition and Congress today moved into the city for its setup as allied organizations holding the spectacle.

A fleet of nearly 100 airplanes, many of them oil company ships, was ready to take a week's accretion of visitors.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Middle-aged—speaking, personal women can thank Dr. F. M. Edwards for the unprecedented success of women for 30 and more years. During these years he gave his patients a substitute for calomel made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. Know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonders for clearing the complexion, for giving it normal color, for toning up the whole and poisonous matter is quickly driven out.

If you have a pale face, ashen hue, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, dullness, no good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets now and then to keep fit. 15c, 30c and 60c.

Beauty Wins Freedom

JOHN LEAVES BRIDE TO GO TO WORK

Lake Mason Ct., Oct. 7 (AP)—Major John Coolidge, back from his honeymoon at Moosehead Lake, took up the prosaic duties of a railroad clerk in the operating offices of the New Haven Railroad today, having driven alone from his father-in-law's home in Plainville.

Mrs. Coolidge, who was Florence Trumbull, remained at the home of her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge were overnight guests of Gov. and Mrs. Trumbull, having arrived at the executive home from Portland on the last stage of their trip from the Governor's summer camp in Florence's roadster.

The apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge in Fountain st. had been made ready for their occupancy, but it will be necessary for the bride to arrange the furniture and furnings as most of them were not delivered until last Wednesday. The transfer of the furniture from the vans was watched by the neighbors.

Many of the articles which Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge will regard with interest are wedding books in which are news snippings about their first meeting, their romance and their wedding.

The first gift to arrive today was an autographed copy of a novel of suburban married life, the author of which wrote inside the cover "To John and Florence Coolidge who are also beginning the matrimonial venture."

The book will be placed in the bookcase beside the two cookbooks Mrs. Coolidge purchased in Hartford. One is entitled "How to Please a Husband."

Civic Club Drops "Mayoralty Night"

The "mayoralty night," planned by the West Somerville Civic Association for tomorrow night, has been abandoned because all the candidates have not sent letters of acceptance.

Routine matters, which have accumulated during the summer months, will be taken up at the meeting to be held in the Western Junior high school, where the president, Dr. John E. Gillis, will preside.

GIRL, 13, DIES TO HEED ADVICE OF MOTHER

New York, Oct. 7 (INS)—Thirteen-year-old Dina Panagekos never missed her mother more than she did recently. But "mamma" had died seven years ago, when Dina was only six.

To Dina's immature mind the problem of having to undergo a physical examination transcended everything else of late, and she was greatly worried.

"Before I let a strange doctor examine me, I'll die," she told her chum.

They found Dina's slender body stretched across a bed. Beside her lay the body of her pet cat.

On the floor was a quarter. "Dad," a peanut vender, had given her that for spending money. He was good to her.

But it was mother's advice that she had needed.

Mrs. Gene Tunney Recovering Fast

Reelin, Oct. 7—Mrs. Gene Tunney is speedily recovering from an appendicitis operation, according to Miss Helen Ufford, the former heavyweight champion's secretary.

"She rallied so rapidly that her doctor was surprised," Miss Ufford said, adding that the former Polly Lauder was expected to leave the clinic at the end of this week.

Hold Girl Auto Racer as Burglar Suspect

Chicago, Oct. 7 (AP)—Joan La Coste, a woman automobile racer, was the center of attention today, but there were no crowds acclaiming her praise.

In place of the speedway where she said she once drove an auto-

NEW MUTINY IN PRISON FEARED

Canon City, Col., Oct. 7 (AP)—Fear hovered again today over the Colorado state penitentiary, which last Friday was in the throes of a bloody mutiny.

Officials discovered two revolvers hidden in a coal pile and one official said he was certain five convicts were armed, that is, had arms hidden.

The noose dangled close to three heads as a result of investigation of the mutiny, in which 12 lives were lost in battle, by massacre and by suicide.

Charles Davis was ordered placed in solitary confinement. Soon after the two revolvers were found and Leo W. McGenty, 28, Denver gunman, was ordered confined. Both men, Warden F. E. Crawford said, were in possession of weapons when the mutiny broke out.

NAB GANGSTERS WHO TORTURE RICH RECLUSE

New York, Oct. 7 (AP)—Three gangsters were captured today in the apartment of Robert Joseph Burns, Brooklyn recluse, after they had tortured him in an attempt to learn where he had hidden money and valuables.

Burns' residence is only a block away from the Poplar st. police station. The gangsters, two of whom are said to be members of the notorious "White Hand gang," seized Burns in his bed, twisted his legs and arms and demanded to know where he had secreted his wealth. He refused to tell.

The rough and tumble battle that ensued aroused other families and the police were summoned.

The gangsters were subdued after a stiff fight and Burns was given medical treatment.

The prisoners gave their names as Thomas Thornton, Joseph Kenny and James Riley, all of New York.

Man, Wife to Seek Orinoco Source

New York, Oct. 7—One of the last blind spots on the map is the goal of Dr. and Mrs. Herbert Spencer Dickey, who are planning to search for the source of the Orinoco river by launch and canoe next spring. They hoped to find trace of an ancient civilization.

Vicks passes 26 Million

More and more COLDS treated EXTERNALLY

The ever growing demand for Vicks VapoRub, the external treatment for colds, has once more compelled a change in the familiar slogan.

Not long ago this slogan, made famous when Vicks reached "17 Million Jars Used Yearly," was raised to "21 Million." This figure too has been outgrown, as there are now "Over 26 Million Jars Used Yearly"—a jar for every family in the United States.

When Vicks was originated the idea of treating colds without "dosing" was almost unheard of. Today the whole trend of medical practice is away from needless "dosing."

CANADA TO ACT ON U. S. LIQUOR EXPORTATIONS

Ottawa, Oct 7 (AP)—Possibility of a pronouncement as to exportation of liquor today increased interest in tomorrow's cabinet meeting.

The request of the United States that Canada refuse clearances of liquor intended to be smuggled across the border has been given much consideration by the cabinet during the summer. Now that the justice department has ruled the refusal of clearances can only be authorized by the act of Parliament, the question will be put to the cabinet here before it is decided the government should announce the measure or accept it by silence to allow any such proposal to come before the Commons, by action of some private member.

W. D. Euler, minister of national revenue, upon whom would fall the task of enforcing such a measure, has frequently expressed the opinion that a refusal of clearances would not help the rum running situation. But he has made it clear to his colleagues that if they come to the conclusion that Canada should acquiesce to United States request in the matter he will endeavor sincerely to enforce it.

The total value of liquor which here exported from Canada to the United States last year was $21,350,000 and the year before $21,178,000.

They Are to Be Married

GIRL DEFIES PARENTS, WILL WED NEGRO

New York, Oct 7—Overriding the objections of her parents, Edith Margaret Oedelschoff, daughter of a former German government official, will become the bride of Aaron (Phil) Edwards, colored Olympic athlete and captain of New York University track team, on Wednesday.

The girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Oedelschoff, have declared themselves strongly opposed to the match, but the couple declare that will not prevent the ceremony.

"We certainly do object, and we will stop the match," Mrs. Oedelschoff told reporters at her home in Weehawken, N. J. "They will never be married if we can prevent it."

Textile Workers of South Unionized

[illegible] from the textile operations in Tennessee, Georgia, North and South Carolina. We regret all organizations in textiles, in plain words, particularly in the South. Organizing work in the South cannot stop until all industries are thoroughly organized.

Extension of the five-day week, steady unemployment insurance through introduction of machinery, and old-age retirement are mentioned in the report as features of the federation's program for the next year.

Authorization of an effective militant campaign against child labor and establishment of unemployment bureaus are suggested as methods of meeting the unemployment problem.

The cooperation of the trade unions with the labor parties of the nations is declared necessary for the success of the movement.

The report recommends further restriction in immigration from Europe and restriction of immigration from Mexico and Central and South America to a minimum.

Americans Should Back Up MacDonald

Just as surely cause another and a greater war.

He made combinations for war and alliances which contemplated nothing but war, without the slightest realization that the peoples of the world were in sullen revolt against war, that civilization could not endure another war, and that England of all nations could least AFFORD another war.

England's fleet no longer defends her. This historic iron wall of battleships, behind which she has rested securely for centuries, no longer protects her. The great navy which in times past had destroyed all rival sea powers, and which had defied even the military genius of Napoleon, is no longer of the least avail. That mighty fleet is now merely a magnificent but meaningless gesture.

The next war will not be fought on the surface of the sea. It will be fought in the air and under the sea.

London can be as easily destroyed by airplane attack as Paris or Berlin, and all the British Isles can be reduced to starvation and submission in a few months of modern submarine blockade. England is not merely as vulnerable now as any European power. She is ten times more vulnerable.

In another war the British Empire might have to transfer its capital to Canada, as Portugal during the Napoleonic wars transferred its capital to Brazil. The British Isles might be utterly devastated. The British Empire would, of course, survive and perhaps triumph, and in any case England would be restored, but would never completely recover.

Ramsay MacDonald BELIEVES in peace and he KNOWS what peace means to society, to his country and to the world. He has taken the best means, and perhaps the only immediate means of securing peace, by promoting an understanding between the two most powerful and most peaceful nations on the earth.

Such an agreement distinctly does NOT contemplate war. It contemplates peace, and it COMMANDS peace. It does not contemplate nor confer ANYTHING BUT PEACE.

There are no secret combinations, no devious diplomacies, no hidden purposes, no machinations against other nations, no antagonisms against other peoples.

There will be military and naval and airplane forces in ample and adequate strength, each nation not so much equalling as supplementing the other.

But these armed establishments will be not for the purpose of destruction, but for purposes of protection. Not to prosecute hostilities against other nations, but to insure and guntrun these great peoples in peaceful possession of their lives, in peaceful prosecution of their labors, in peaceful attainment of their ambitions and ideals for the advancement of civilization and the progress and prosperity of all peoples and the happiness of humanity throughout the world.

Ramsay MacDonald has had the courage and the conviction, and the devotion to high principle, to come across the sea to endeavor to perform the greatest accomplishment that has ever been achieved by human beings, and to strive to realize the inspiring and exalting ideal of Peace on Earth, Good Will to Men, which Christ preached nearly 2000 years ago upon the shores of Galilee.

Let us all as good Americans, as good Christians, as civilized people, unite in thought and deed with the people of England, and with all the peaceloving peoples of the earth to bring this majestic mission, this universal benefaction, to a successful issue.

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST.

U.S. Intervenes in N.Y. Truckmen's Strike

New York, Oct. 7.—Federal intervention in the railroad strike in New York's metropolitan area was assured today when Governor Roosevelt broke down the barriers of state sovereignty which have hampered the movement of food and other perishable foodstuffs into New York city.

A conference was arranged between truckmen and representatives of the strikers in an attempt to settle the walkout.

Meanwhile 500 truckmen at the Harlem market on the East Side went on a sympathetic strike with the 2000 South Street union men, and deliveries were also curtailed at the Washington Market. Both markets walked out Saturday when their demands for an eight hour day and increased overtime pay were refused.

Union officials of the 500 teamsters in Newark, N. J., would be called out tomorrow unless immediate settlement of the strike should be reached. The New Jersey drivers are members of the local of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters.

Tobin Hannigan, president of the New York Local 202 said strikers would not interfere with trucks carrying perishable foods and from New Jersey through the Holland tunnel. Police escort would be required, the union drivers in Newark would strike.

The New York market district is holding up 50,000 tons of valuable produce, consigned to New York, in railroad yards while only the latest in fresh fruit and vegetable arrivals are permitted to be moved to the consignees from New England and South and California.

It is estimated that 200 truckers handle the shipping problems already ready are idle and that number will be increased to 5000 by Monday with the spreading of the strike.

The situation grew serious today. Railway shippers and waterfront terminals here and in New Jersey were clogged with perishable fruit. Valuable produce from New England, the South, and as far west as California lay piled in carloads and boatloads.

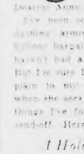
Dearest Anne:

I've been so busy this week dashing around in search of holiday bargains for you that I haven't had a minute to write. But I'm sure I don't need to explain to my Anne—especially when she sees all the wonderful things I've found as a holiday send-off! Here they are:

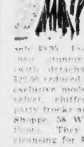
A Holiday Sale!

The Gay Shoppe comes to our rescue again Anne—with something very pretty and amusing very special for Columbus Day! They have reduced all their dressy dresses to $9.95. A whole pack full of the newest satin cantrees, some handsome velvet trimmed and tweeds, silk and wools—all the styles you've admired for months! Exchanged or cash refunded. Also a sale of new dressing Paris models with detachable sleeves; for $29.50, reduced from $79.50. Other exclusive models in transparent velvet, chiffon, and adorable party frocks at less. The Gay Shoppe, 58 Winter St., (second floor). They also do French cleansing for $1, also dyeing.



Strati's Reduced Prices!

Here's a holiday news scoop, Strati's permanent waves are reduced to $8, including all the curls necessary, shampoo, setting wave and cut. Of course it is for a limited time, so Strati gives the original Eugene Frederics, Vita Tonic and improved Lesbu Methods, using genuine Lachers. When the first gray hair appears let Strati, in his daylight booths, apply Insota Nature hair dye, which covers the worst gray, insert rolls and waves gray or faded hair so naturally it defies detection. Lib. 9445. Special departments for marcels, bobbing, braids, finger waving. Strati, 11 Winter St., Room 73-74.



The Bell Hosiery Shops

have some wonder-wearing hosiery creations in all the newest Fall shades that you really should try, Anne. Exquisite quality silk of the finest weave, and perfect fit. Their special $1.65 semi-service weight, with slim French heel, all silk to the garter top, and all-silk chiffons are exceptional values. Another special at $1.17 in either chiffon or extra heavy service weight cotton with novelty heels. Picot edge chiffon at $1.27 and the sheerest ingrain chiffons with diamond point heel for $1.47. The Bell Hosiery Shops, 30 Temple Place, Rm. 615, with seven other shops in Malden, Somerville, Lynn, Salem, Brockton and Woonsocket. You may order by mail.

A Lesson in Facials

at Houghton & Dutton's Beauty Parlor all this week. Just buy a $1 jar of their marvelous Komplex Cream, and another 60-cent jar of cream, and their expert operators will give you a facial, demonstrating with the creams, the best way of caring at home for your individual skin. Their permanent waves at $8 and $10 include all the curls necessary, shampoo and setting wave. And they have exceptional success with their Ineeto Castor haircolor which they apply, or sell for home use. Windblown bobs, 75 cents; regular bobs, 50 cents.

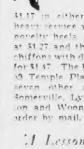


Figure Beautifiers!

You simply cannot disregard fashion's trend, which demands a trim, stylish figure. For many figures have lost their youthful lines through wearing foundation garments with elastic webbing. Mrs. Caporn (an Australian artist, with a method for individual designing all her own) is making a garment WITHOUT ELASTIC WEBBING. Adjustable lacings on each side confine the figure within slender lines. It corrects fatty tissue, holds in abdomen and hips; is comfy to wear, and is easily laundered. All women are different. So, Mrs. Caporn designs and makes for the individual. One day service. Call and see models. Caporn, 234 Boylston St., Thorndyke Bldg. Ken. 4230.

The Oldest Store in Town Celebrates!

96 candles on its birthday cake, and hundreds of wonderful bargains for its delighted customers. C. F. Hovey Co., the store where grandmother bought her first crinoline and fine laces offers some really breath-taking dollar savers today and tomorrow—the last two days of their 96th Anniversary Sale. Every department in the entire store has values to offer. On the street floor, from the very latest "Catseye" jewelry at $1, to shoes, dress goods and novelty gifts. On the second floor, coats, sportswear and dresses for women are marked way below the original price tags. The third floor for misses is fairly singing with joy at the savings it offers to youthful budgeteers on stunning winter coats, dresses and hats. Beautiful furniture is timely topic for October brides and household furnishings, with some cold weather specials, such as fluffy fleece plaid blankets, large size, for only $3.69. Reversible Cranberry Moiré Robes, regularly $7.95, special at $3.69. Sheets of the famous Hovena brand at $1.55. Oh, Anne—how can I tell you all the marvelous bargains? You have simply got to see them for yourself! And there are only two days left!

Fit For A Queen!

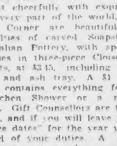
You could not possibly receive more courteous service than at Scott Furriers, Inc., 60 Summer St., New England's Largest Fur Establishment. Their large and well-trained organization is ready to serve you pleasantly and efficiently with twenty offices for opening accounts, assuring absolute privacy. No unnecessary delays when making your payments, as there are six cashiers at your service. For your convenience, open every evening until 9 P. M.

The Calico Cat and the China Dog

are the best of friends at last Anne! They perched it up in Filene's new shops, which opened today at the corner of Franklin and Hawley Sts., the building formerly occupied by Jones, McDuffee & Stratton, entirely devoted to gifts and toys. Here under a starry blue sky, Mother Goose bobbins most cheerfully with exquisite gifts from every part of the world. In the Oriental Corner are beautiful imported novelties of carved Soapstone, Cinnebar, Italian Pottery, with special opening values in three-piece Cinnamone cigarette sets, at $2.95, including jar, match case and ash tray. A $1 Gift Corner that contains everything for a colorful Kitchen Shower or a novel fudge party. Gift Counsellors are there to guide you, and if you will leave your "remembrance dates" for the year you'll be reminded of your duties. A Ping Pong Expert on the Balcony and a magician in another corner to take bunnies from an unsuspecting hat. Almost-alive baby dolls; fuzzy bears, at $1.69, and puppy-dogs that will make anyone from 6 to 60 long to "play house." An Air Port, with the latest miniature blimps and airplanes. Armies of toy soldiers, doll carriages, and automobiles. Iron trains with track enough for miles of touring are special at $1. And soon in Filene's Now Gift and Toy Store.

I Have A Surprise For You, Anne!

I've been bursting to tell you about it, but I promised to keep it a secret until today, because it is a special holiday offer—for this week only! And now here it is! The Silver's offer for $59 one of their regular $79 coats, and a $16.50 dress! Both a stunning winter coat, gorgeously fur-trimmed, and a beautiful dress for $59! The coats of suede cloth and broadcloth are richly trimmed with huge collars, cuffs and borders of caracul, natural, kit fox, with the new cut princess lines and flares. The dresses are canton, satin or print, stunning silhouette models with long lines and slenderizing, or ensembles. These are marvelous values, and the Silver's guarantee they are original prices. If you wish a higher priced coat, you may select a higher priced dress. Coats range from $35 to $125. There is a special on dresses, too! You may select two dresses from their lovely array of distinctive models, ranging from $19.50 to $39, and pay but half the price tag on the second one. Two dresses at the cost of one and a half! Silver's Specialty Shop, 59 Temple Place, 5th floor. The sizes are from 14 to 44.



You Just Have Time

for a holiday clean-up, Anne, if you pack your soiled things off to Pyramid Co. today. Don't forget it's going to be a nice-long week-end holiday, and you can use more than one frock or coat. The Pyramid Co. are the famous cleansers with the new cleansing process that actually restores lost life and lustre to soiled, bedraggled clothes, and at the famous price of $1 for anything! And now instead of "taking the chance" of folding your things, rushing their colors and texture, just send them to the Pyramid who will remove every spot and stain, press them beautifully. I have seen some transparent velvets which they cleansed that came out like new—and the charge is only $1. Fur-trimmed coats, one or two piece suits, dresses with pleats; dresses with flares—all cost but $1, at Pyramid Co. They also clean curtains and carpets at a very reasonable price. They call and deliver. If it is not convenient for you to get in town with your things you can mail them. So if you are preparing for a gay week-end send your things early to the Pyramid Co., Fabyan Bldg., 28 West St., Rm. 602.

This Is the Time

for your hair needs excess attention, Anne, when you are wearing such snug-fitting hats. To keep it stimulated and well-nourished and lustrous, a few drops of Hairlene into your scalp at night, and notice the wonderful tingly feeling it gives, and the marked improvement in the growth of your hair. It banishes dandruff, completely, soothes the tenderest scalps, and wards off grayness indefinitely. Both men and women are delighted with Hairlene. You may order by mail, or call in person. Hairlene Laboratories, 8 Winter St., Rm. 710. $1 a 6 oz. bottle; $2 for 16 oz.

"Sylvia's Check"

is like a rose! This lovely old song makes me think of our Sylvia, and how smooth and fair her skin has become since she had all those little superfluous hairs removed by our electric needle friend, Miss Elizabeth Sparkes. She has made Sylvia a new person. Miss Sparkes is a marvel as careful and deft as can be. With her electric needle she removes every tiny hair, permanently, and painlessly, and leaves not even a trace upon the skin. Her prices are reasonable, and you'll feel confident the minute you meet her. Miss Sparkes is at 120 Tremont St., Rm. 334. Han. 7382.

Hats Molded for $3!

Fitted—snipped and completely made by the deft fingers of Mlle. Eugenie A. Bouchard, for only $3. Whether you want an original model, suited to your individual type, or a Paris model, copied from the most exclusive imports, Mlle. Bouchard is the artist for you. And you may choose your hood from Bonnett's gorgeous selection of velvets, felts, soleils, velours and suedes, priced $2, $3, $4, $5 in every stunning Fall color. Mlle. Bouchard is located at Bonnett's, 127 Tremont St., sixth floor. She also does remodelling at very reasonable prices.

I've Made A Discovery

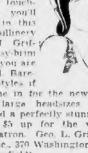
too!—That the nicest place to shop for gifts is Pfaelzer's "Ten Thumb Shop!" Such dainty, unusual things at such agreeable prices! Soft, cozy baby blankets with colorful bindings at $1. All wool blankets at $3.50 up. In two tones, one of pink and yellow! Hand-woven shawls and carriage robes, with rosebud embroidery, $3. All silk puffs in the softest colors, $2 up. And elderdown Baby Buntings to bundle His Sweetness in for $3.50, at Pfaelzer's Tom Thumb Shop, 364 Boylston St. Two children will model in their Fashion Show every day this week at 3 o'clock.

I've an Evelyn Frock

for the holiday, Anne. It has the newest nipped-in high waistline and flared skirt that makes me look positively slight-ly. Evelyn's glorious array includes cantons, satin, printed and plain transparent velvets, in the new long line silhouettes and ensembles. Evelyn's prices are so appealing, ranging from $6.95 to $19.50. Trim covert cloth dresses and suits at $9.50. On the Treasure Trove floor, sweaters and light weight woolens at $3.95, service weight hosiery, $1.10; chiffon, $1.65. Evelyn's Dress Shop, 4 Winter St.

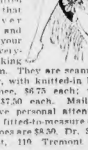
Such Flattery!

Oh, not from me, my dear, but from that perfectly adorable hat you bought at Geo. L. Griffin & Sons. Haven't they the most wonderful felts and soleils for $3.95? Every one hand made, with individual touch to each, that you'll find only in this modern millinery section of Griffin's. Especially models, if you are tailored. Bare forehead styles if you've gone in for the new silhouettes, large headsizes and small. And a perfectly stunning group at $5 up for the well-dressed matron. Geo. L. Griffin & Sons, Inc., 370 Washington St. (Opp. Bromfields).



Varicose Veins

Don't despair at least there is one comforting thought—Dr. Saul's new French elastic stocking! Not a wrinkle at your ankle nor a bulge at your knee can show with these stockings, for they have an elastic knitted cuff at top that extends over the knee and fastens to your garter! Every one is talking about them. They are seamless, high color, with knit-in heel. To the knee, $6.75 each; with soft top, $7.50 each. Mail orders receive personal attention. Dr. Saul's fitted-to-measure arch support shoes are $8.50. Dr. Saul, Chiropodist, 110 Tremont St., Rm. 312.



You Can Laugh at Time

even though your hair is beginning to number your birthdays with streaks of silver-gray, for L. Max, a true artist of hair-coloring can restore the natural color and sheen. For over fifty years L. Max has had exceptional success with his corrective dyes for hair destroyed by harsh methods. When your permanent begins to vanish, why not have a "retouched" permanent under the direct supervision of L. Max, whose staff of efficient operators excel in all kinds of waving. Prices are very moderate. L. Max occupies the entire third floor, 154 Boylston St. Can. 3831.

Sixty Debutantes Start Junior League Training Course October 15

Miss Betty Soule Heads Entertainment Committee; Plan Children's Play

SIXTY DEBUTANTES WHO HAVE BEEN ELECTED PROVISIONAL members of the Junior League gather this afternoon at the League rooms on Commonwealth ave. for their first meeting of the season. Miss Edward Hoar Warren, the president, will address them informally and Miss Dorothy Lawrence, the vice president, will instruct them about the provisional training course which they will start on Oct. 15. The principal business of the meeting will be the election of a debutante chairman and vice chairman from the group, to take charge of their calendar for social service duties during the coming season.

MISS BETTY SOULE, WHO served as chairman of the committee which sold $100,000 worth of bonds for the new Junior League clubhouse, has been chosen to head the entertainment committee which will put on a children's play before the holidays to raise money for the league's charity work. Other chairmen announced by Mrs. Edward Hoar Warren, the president, are Mrs. Rudolph Evers for athletics, a new interest this year; Miss Helen Jackson, librarian at the league rooms; Miss Marian Upton, editor of the league magazine, and Miss Lavington Merchant, hospital library representative. Miss Betty Emery will assist the new executive secretary. Miss Barbara Reynolds. Other appointments include Mrs. William T. Barker, marionettes; Mrs. W. Power Blodgett, fine arts; Miss Jeanette Kilham, commercial arts; Mrs. Gordon Allen, prints and drawings; and Miss Margaret Wentworth, arts and crafts exhibition.

OTHER CHAIRMEN WHO will continue in the same posts as last year are, Mrs. Carleton Richmond, arts and interests; Mrs. Alexander Neilson, secretary of the permanent bureau of arts and crafts; Mrs. Gordon Abbott, jr., garden club; Mrs. Leonard Opdycke, library; Miss Barbara Reynolds, social service; Mrs. Henry Jackson, jr., players; Mrs. George Remis, news sheet.

MR. AND MRS. JUDSON GILBERT HOPKINS have issued invitations for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Christine Stark, to Sherman Damon in the Presbyterian Church, Rye, New York, on Oct. 11. A small reception will follow at their home on Dogwood Lane, Miss Hopkins has chosen her sister, Miss Elizabeth F. Hopkins, as her maid of honor. Her other attendants will be Miss Winifred M. Hopkins, another sister; Miss Priscilla Damon, sister of the groom; Miss Harriet Stuart and Miss Ella O'Day. Mr. Damon's brother, Lawrence Barton Damon, will serve as best man, and the usher squad will be composed of Francis H. Cummings, David T. W. McCord, Wolcott Fuller, Clarence Rodgers Burgin, all of Boston; Alden French of Springfield, and Alexander Hamilton Frey of New Haven. After a six weeks' trip abroad, Mr. and Mrs. Damon will live on Middlesex rd., Chestnut Hill.

THRONGS OF FRIENDS ATTENDED the tea given by Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Holton announcing the engagement of their daughter, Miss Eleanor Holton, to Dr. Reginald Smithwick, at their summer home in Swampscott. The bride-elect was charmingly gowned in blue chiffon; a corsage on the shoulder giving just the right touch. Miss Rosamond Holton, a debutante sister, who took charge of the pourers, wore a modishly long green satin frock. Among those assisting at the tables were Miss Marjorie Morrill, dressed in brown chiffon velvet with matching turban, Mrs. Benjamin A. G. Thorndike in a bright blue costume, and Miss Louise Slocum. The guests included a number of this year's buds. Brown crepe de chine was becomingly worn by Miss Barbara Proctor and Miss Caroline Dey's piquant blondness was well set off by a striking dress of robin's egg blue with natural waist line and long back. It was a delightful tea and we will look forward to a wedding in May.

MISS ELIZABETH BRADLEE ABBOTT, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ward Abbott, will join the ranks of the fall brides. Her engagement to Reginald Foster, jr., of Boston and Manchester, was announced by her parents at a tea at their Yarmouthport home. Miss Abbott was presented in 1920 and belongs to the Sewing Circle group of that season and to the Junior League. Mr. Foster is a Yale man, class of 1922, a His clubs are the Tennis and Racquet, the Country Club, Eastern Yacht and the Yale Club of Boston.

Miss Betty Spalding, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eliot Spalding of Berkeley st. and Beverly, will be presented at a smart dinner dance next month. She was among the buds attending a recent coming-out party when the cameraman discovered her in this informal pose.

DEBUTANTES OF THE SEASON of 1929-30 are interested in the announcement of the engagement of Miss Katherine Powers and Dr. Gerald H. Gray of Piedmont, Cal., just made by her parents, Dr. and Mrs. George H. Powers of Beacon st. Miss Powers made her debut in 1925 and was elected to membership in the Junior League. Her fiance is a graduate of Harvard Medical School in the class of 1928.

WEDDING BELLS WILL ring for Miss Emily Howe and Hugh Clough Watson of London, Eng., sometime after Easter, it was disclosed by her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Walter Clarke Howe of Beacon st., who announce their daughter's engagement.

Fur-Trimmed Satins Are the Prevailing Mode for Afternoon and Evening Wear

SKETCHED IN PARIS

EARLIER in the season, hats with glycerined plumes were shown, but they did treat attract many buyers. There are but few models of course, a number of women who have remained faithful to the plumed hat, and they would be at a loss without the soft points in our sartorial armor.

Feathered Fancies on Hats Are Becoming Popular

Paris Bureau of the Boston Evening American

PARIS, Oct. 7.—Despite the many new and delightful fabrics among this season, the mistress of the moment is satin, both soft and lustrous, and every collection features satin for both day time and evening wear. One of the most delightful of all-season dresses from the house of Worth is of satin, both brilliant and soft of texture. It combines so many of the established features of the mode that it should be studied with due attention. Noted are the close-fitting bodice, natural waistline, irregular hem, and the touch of fur, which in this case is found in the ermine banding the collar. Ermine cuffs and collar gadets are placed on the skirt in an original arrangement of box-pleats at the top of each tube-like fold.

A FEATHER in the way of trimming, the designer was responsible for the revival of such trimming, is the increasing number of models shown embellished with feathered fancies. Glycerined ostrich and aigrette brushes are the two most popular touches to be found in the newest hats. And one precaution has been taken to avoid any shedding of over-trimming. Birds of a feather do not nest on hats any more—just a few feathery fronds are sufficient for decorative purposes.

Remove FILM daily. Ordinary brushing methods fail. Employ this special way

WHAT causes decay? Germs. Germs, with tartar, are also held to be a chief cause of pyorrhea.

Germs on the teeth — and there are millions—are difficult to reach. A dingy, glue-like film holds them in contact with the tooth's enamel.

This film coat gets into crevices and stays. It clings so stubbornly that only a special film-removing tooth paste can remove it satisfactorily. That tooth paste is the scientific formula called Pepsodent. Utterly different from every other, as you notice instantly when it touches your teeth.

No pumice, no harmful grit. No crude abrasive, but a creamy paste so gentle that it is recommended for children's teeth and for tender gums.

Safeguard your teeth and give them the dazzling whiteness Pepsodent alone can bring. Write for free 10-day tube to The Pepsodent Co., 1104 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago.

GOOD COOKS REWARDED FOR ART

Apparently all Lees are good cooks. Anyway, our prize winning recipe this week comes from Mrs. James E. Lees of 4 Highland Rd., Wellesley and we listened to see that she does not belong to the Stuyvesant branch of the Lee family. Mrs. Lee's recipe for Cheese Surprise is one that the judges thought so delicious and well balanced that they have awarded it the $5 cash prize this week because it is appetizing, economical and well balanced and because it makes use of two food products advertised in this paper, Babcock's Cheese Food and Squire-Armstrong bacon.

CHEESE SURPRISE

4 slices white bread
Tomato sauce
Square bacon
2 eggs
Salt
Pepper

Cut bread in rounds and remove centers. Brush with melted butter or oil and toast one side only. Remove from broiler.

Scramble the three eggs mentioned above, seasoning with salt and pepper.

On the untoasted side of the bread spread cheese to thickness desired. Put about two thsps. of the scrambled egg on top of Babcock's and spread until cheese is covered on top of egg. Place one slice of square bacon, cut in half, on top of cheese and broil in oven until bacon is crisp. Serve with catsup if desired.

You may substitute any other kind of bacon you prefer, but the Squire-Armstrong bacon is the most delicious we have ever tasted. Besides, it is advertised in this paper and you are sure of getting the best when you demand Squire-Armstrong bacon. Mrs. Lee's address is 4 Highland Rd., Wellesley.

FROM MARKET WATCHTOWER

Mushrooms are more plentiful and cheaper this week and are not to be overlooked at any cost, since they are delicious and 25c now is a small price. In other words, the Domestic Economist's Mushrooms is economy's most nourishment to our money but are also delicious for the table. Cucumbers are cheaper this week, and wax beans are also cheaper as are peppers and tomatoes are surprisingly low in price.

Cabbage, cauliflower, cauliflower and spinach are plentiful.

Peaches and pears are plentiful with Bartlett Nokol and Sheldon pears coming in. Choice McIntosh apples are selling for 50c a dozen, the poorer grade at five cents each. Concord grapes are good for jelly and are ten cents a basket.

The potato market is full and with moderate supply and a large variety from which to choose. They keep well and are excellent for baking, making into fine mashed potatoes, or cooking in their jackets and then peeling and frying. Lemons are cheaper this week. Southern peaches seem to be practically over.

With colder weather here pork products are becoming more popular and are moderately priced. So is lamb.

Western broilers are 50c to 60c a pound, with native, fresh killed fowl 50c to 60c.

Fresh killed ducks are 50c to 55c with a few birds at 32c. A native turkey or two, fresh killed, has appeared at 50c to 60c a pound, with the cold storage variety at 40c to 50c.

RICE RING WITH VEGETABLES

One cupful rice in boiling salted water, cook until tender, drain, rinse with hot water. Butter individual moulds, sprinkle with finely chopped parsley, season rice with salt, pepper and butter. When rice is cold it should be almost firm enough to mould into neat strips. Turn out on serving plate and fill with well-seasoned cooked vegetables such as peas, carrots, beans and string beans or any other desired combination. Garnish with parsley and serve with Mock Hollandaise or plain white sauce.

TRY POUND CAKE WITH POTATOES

The open season is on for sweet potatoes, so do try this unusual cake.

Mash four good-sized sweet potatoes, or enough to fill a pint measure, and while hot beat in one-half a cup of butter and two well-beaten eggs. Add three-fourths a cup of sugar, mixed with a scant teaspoonful of salt, and—but only if you like—a teaspoonful of grated mace, cinnamon or nutmeg. Sift one cup and one-half of flour with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, and add to the first mixture, alternately with one-half a cup of milk or enough milk to make the batter of the right consistency. The juice of one-half a lemon and its grated yellow rind will improve the cake, but is not essential. Bake in a greased and floured pan at 350 deg F. for an hour, or until done.

AUCTION BRIDGE by WILBUR C. WHITEHEAD

SALIENT POINTS OF BIDDING

Auction: Following North's assist of Hearts on the second round, East, although holding five Probable Tricks in his hand with Spades as Trumps cannot afford to bid without having heard from partner.

Contract: North passes his one bid for Hearts on the first round to keep the bidding open. Exhibiting two Spades, South has three Hearts, a rebid justified only by reason of his partner's support. Neither North nor South can enjoy the misuing to the game contract.

THE PLAY

West opens the 3 of Spades, South winning with his singleton Ace. South starts the establishment of the Diamond suit by leading low to Dummy's Jack, the finesse losing to East's King. East leads West's opening lead of the three of Spades (the Deuce being in Dummy) as from the lowest of four cards. Conventionality, it must have been either the fourth best Spade or a singleton, and East considers it more likely to have been the former.

If West held four Spades, then South's Ace must have been a singleton. If so, East by leading a Spade can force the strong trump hand, and upon obtaining the lead with the Ace of Trumps can force it again. This apparently natural method of play is departed from by Ace after further analysis. You read: South's lead of Diamonds is for the purpose of entering Dummy in order to lead Trumps therefrom and as a start towards the establishment of the Diamond suit.

West cannot have more than three Diamonds, for then South could have held but a singleton and would not have finessed. With no more than three, West, if holding the Queen, with the Ace, Jack, nine in Dummy, would have played it, leaving the further defense of the suit to his partner.

South, therefore, must hold the Queen and cannot hold the ten with it, since then he would naturally have led the Queen. West therefore must hold the ten, and since the eight was undoubtedly his lowest Diamond, he can have only the remaining Queen. Consequently, East returns a Diamond at Trick 3 with a view to giving West a Diamond ruff on the third round.

Declarer uses Trick 3 with Dummy's Ace in order to lead a trump from Dummy. East plays the Ace of trumps and leads a Diamond for West to ruff. This ruff, together with Ace of Trumps and King of Diamonds already made and a Club trick subsequently taken, holds the Declarer to his contract.

BANANAS ADD FOOD VALUE

The unusual flavor, shape and texture of the ripe banana make it a versatile food, adaptable to many uses. The old-fashioned dish of bananas and milk is a combination of high nutritional value, as recent dietary experiments illustrate. For a luscious dessert, try this delicious banana custard.

BANANA CUSTARD

2 cups scalded milk
Yolks 3 eggs
¼ cup sugar
¼ tsp. salt
1 tsp. vanilla
3 bananas

Beat eggs slightly, using a fork, add sugar and salt; stir constantly while adding gradually hot milk. Cook in double boiler, continue stirring until mixture thickens and a coating is formed on the spoon, strain immediately; flavor and chill. When cool, pour over sliced bananas. Top each serving with a spoonful of whipped cream.

"Banana Split," made by slicing bananas on ice cream—garnishing with chopped candied cherries, if you like—is an attractive variation for your dessert list.

"Banana-Peanut Salad" is a favorite with luncheoon guests. A recent research study to discover the salad best liked by the eating public proved its popularity. You'll like it, too, I'm sure.

PEANUT BUTTER STRIPS

Cream together one-half cup of peanut butter and one cup of milk. Add three-fourths teaspoon of salt, a few grains of pepper and one slightly beaten egg. Remove the crusts from slices of bread and cut in strips. Dip in the mixture and saute in butter. Serve hot.

PEAR SALAD IS DELICIOUS

Remove the skin and stem from choice, tender pears, cut in halves and remove the core. Arrange the pear-halves on heart leaves of lettuce. With a potato ball cutter scoop out rounds of mint jelly and drop into the cavity in the pears. Place a walnut at the stem end of each pear and serve with unsweetened whipped cream.

COSTE 6158-MI. HOP A RECORD

Peiping, China, Oct. 7 (AP).—A telegram received by the French consul at Harbin, Manchuria, from Capt. Dieudonne Coste, French aviator, says he and Jacques Bellonte, in the plane Question Mark, covered 3610 kilometers (about 6158 miles) on their flight from Le Bourget to Manchuria last week.

This estimate of 1800 miles in excess of the previous long distance flying record, established by the Italian aviator, Ferrarin and Del Prete, in 1928. The Italians flew 4358 miles.

Captain Coste's telegram was sent from Tsitsihar, Manchuria, and said they had landed safely in a desert section of Hethingkiang province, September 29, and had been able to reach Tsitsihar on yesterday. They left Le Bourget September 27.

Their flight established the first non-stop air communication between France and China. The French consul at Harbin, M. Renard, left immediately for Tsitsihar to assist them to obtain fuel and make necessary minor repairs so they could continue their flight. Their original destination was Vladivostok, Siberia.

IN ACTUAL fact are, the Boston show is said to be the greatest of any seen in the United States up to the present. The huge floor of Mechanics' Hall and the heretofore unexplored vastness of the Lyceum Hall on the same floor are filled to capacity with multitudinous booths boasting modern apparatus or every conceivable radio gadget.

WHILE WOMEN in the past have been considered the chief purchasers of radio sets, the men are now beginning to take an interest in the instruments, and the wives are finding that they can't keep their husbands away from the sets. Many men's clubs have radio committees, and the number of radio parties is increasing. Women are also taking an interest in the sets, and the manufacturers have made them more attractive in appearance. Many of the booths at the show are devoted entirely to furniture, and the cabinet models are on display. The interest in home radio is growing rapidly.

LIKE THE AUTOMOBILE, the radio has reached a stage of business. Manufacturers have concentrated their production down to the comparatively simple job of turning out two or three standard models of varying price range. Practically all receivers are today sold complete. Just as the modern motor car comes equipped with wind shield, tires, horn, lamps, etc., which were once looked upon as accessories, so the radio comes into the home equipped with speaker, power pack, tubes, cabinet and installment bills, all ready to operate.

THE PURCHASE of a radio set is no longer a matter of assembling the products of a half-dozen manufacturers into a more or less workable aggregation of mis-matched parts. The buyer can select a set as he does a car, with the knowledge that he is getting a complete unit, ready to operate.

THEY'RE all there at the Garden, dozens and dozens of them, to be looked at and listened to. Things of beauty and of uncanny accuracy. Compact and monumental. Inexpensive and simple. Of high price and less. But taken by and large, the way radio is these days, you can almost shut your eyes, plug your ears and reach out. Whatever you touch will be a good set. It's impossible to find a bad one.

JOHN P. WHITMAN, church editor of the Boston Evening American, has written the following letter from NANKIN for Christmas Issue of Mayflower Magazine. Mr. Whitman is conducting an educational mission among women and children in various Boston missions and is now manufacturing products, of which evidence fine, in Nankin on board.

AN EVENING IN PARIS will be the title of a series of programs from the Columbia system this evening at 9:30.

The final program presents a typical Parisian cafe, with Claude Hopkins' Orchestra, Ted Lewis and his Band, Ben Selvin and his Orchestra, Jack Smith, Frank Munn, Lewis James, Gus Haenschen's Orchestra, Nat Shilkret's Orchestra, Gene Rodemich's Orchestra, Jesse Crawford, Organist, and Vincent Lopez and his Orchestra.

GENERAL MOTORS presents John Philip Sousa and his band in an hour broadcast of martial music, featuring Sousa's own compositions. It will be on the air over WEEI and the NBC east-coast hookup system Monday night at 7:30.

RADIO will play a big part in the broadcast event of the 1929 World Series of baseball, which will be commercially broadcast over the Columbia system and the Philadelphia Athletics, Chicago Cubs and Boston Braves will be at the NBC studios in New York to call out the various innings as they are relayed to them by the broadcasting stations.

The first game will be played in Philadelphia October 4 and it will begin at 2:30 Eastern Standard Time.

Stations scheduled with the NBC are expected to give at least two hours each afternoon to the baseball classic.

A new weekly feature makes its bow to the New England radio audience this evening when Station WEEI will broadcast the initial Station Lennox Investment hour. The speakers will introduce in addition to the musical program, incidents, in dialogue pertaining to investment.

The opening broadcast features Rachmaninoff's "Prelude in C Minor" and Schubert's "March Militaire" played by the concert orchestra under the direction of Oscar Ehgart, and two songs by the Slayton Lennox soprano, "Just a Wearin' for You" and Cadman's "I Hear a Thrush at Eve."

CANINE STARS OF FILMLAND NOW PLAYING LEADING ROLES IN TALKIES

HUMAN VOICES ARE USED FOR DOGS IN FILMS

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor Universal Service
Copyright 1929 by Universal Service

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 7—The canines in the films are leading anything but a dog's life these days. What with the mechanism of sound they are able to talk like any human being. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is making a series of two-reelers in which dogs play the leading roles and use human voices.

I ought to know something about these dogs, you see, because Fanny Darwin, father Bob, plays one of the leading roles and he tells me he's all set. M. G. M. doesn't make you an offer, I will have a few things to say about this dog per cent. Let them show me and I mine.

Zion Myers and Lyn Wells are directing the dog pictures. The first was called "Hot Paws" and is set in prohibition. The second is "Dogs Go to College." Think of hearing a talking dog! Well, as I said before, I'm not to tell about this to Myers. Maybe I'll have a little chat later on. Remember the stage play in which Maude Adams let a chicken teach her?

Glenn Tryon is trying to forget Broadway. The picture, we mean, and we are assuming that he is trying to forget it because it's not a role that he will care to remember when he and the wife are sitting on a hill facing the Pacific ocean, looking at the Pacific Ocean and "Ah, Wilderness!" which he will make for Universal.

In fact, it is his next, and Sherman Hoyt and Emmett Flynn, who directed "Shannons of Broadway," will once more collaborate on the Tryon number.

'Tis whispered that pretty little blonde Vera Reynolds is having tests made for "Paradise Alley," and that she stands a good chance of being elected as Mr. Tryon's leading lady.

I suspect Will Rogers is a comic strip fan. Anyway, he has been accused of being one by Ring Lardner, Jr., son of the famous author. Young Lardner has been writing Will's dialogue for his next picture, "They Had to See Paris," and Will has been heard to remark that Lardner is going to be difficult to follow. It's that good.

There is no doubt that blonde hair is the majority of cases photographs better on the screen than [illegible] shade. Eleanor Boardman, in brown hair, but [illegible] not she looks much better as a blonde than she has been in any of her previous pictures. The moment she [illegible] on her head she looks like her self. Mamba is always sacrificing her hair, it seems to me, in one way or another.

She bobbed it for "The Goose Woman," but not until she was sure her husband, King Vidor, was perfectly willing. There is only one other famous role in which she has appeared on the screen, which is based on a story by Ferdinand Schumann Heink.

We hear in passing that Ruth Taylor is leaving for New York with a few weeks to talk shop to one of the stage producers. We also hear that Blanche Sweet, who had plugged to get back her, finds it impossible to leave Hollywood at this time.

The reason is that Hollywood producers have suddenly learned that Blanche Sweet is even better in sound pictures than she was in the silent pictures. The roles that were given to ingenue her way have started in with a new prance.

We hear tell that Harry Brand, who was associated with Arthur Schenck for so many years, is back at United Artists in the publicity department. The permanency and we are promised that as the final word—no Harry Brand picture in Broadway Again—Rehearsals have started and now it looks as if [illegible] the Richman opera will be completed.

I hate to say it, but the majority of wagers are that Hell's Angels will be the picture to go along with. But Howard Hughes never says a word. He believes in working [illegible] until it's finished. Still, I [illegible] who was responsible for [illegible] ending up [illegible] picture [illegible] almost as [illegible] $6.

A Kiss for Corinna

By MAY CHRISTIE

A Romance of Love of a Girl and a Rich Man

CHAPTER 31

DENISE herself came to her rescue.

"As Mortimer points out, I was almost naked! But one has to be distinctive, you know, to stand out from that crowd."

Corinna forced herself to say and meant it, to her own painful knowledge: "You looked beautiful. Everyone said so."

"I feel very admired."

That rounded Mahew, of course. The Corinna was stupid bore!

But only two nights hard on Nan's de Santalbon patois hadn't her to the thrilling notes of Denise's low, soft voice: "Dere's no use beautiful."

She said now languidly, but in a way she hoped Mortimer was really awfully taken with you. He says it's so refreshing to see a girl with a decent enough skin not to need any paint or powder. That was a hit at me, of course. And he simply raved about your eyes. He says you have the longest, most alluring lashes."

"You can tell him that other people have often told me that, so it's no news," coolingly rejoined Corinna. She was coming out of her shell now, just as she had intended.

Didn't-ums. Men aren't blind," Denise conceded with unusual graciousness. "You know, with your good looks, you really ought to make a very good marriage."

Here was a "draw." What one might call a "feeler." If there was any "understanding" with young Craig—or "hopes"—now was Corinna's chance to tell her . . .

Denise was conscious on her own part of a quick acceleration of the heart as she waited . . .

But Corinna didn't give herself away. She placed Denise's left hand in a small basin of soapy, hot water, leaving it there to soak, before countered. What do you mean by a good marriage?"

Denise stared at the unfathomable young face that had all the creamy purity of a gardenia.

"Why, money, of course!"

"I'm not crazy about money."

"This was incredible.

A poor, of course! Too ridiculous!

"You mean," said Denise Van Wyck slowly, "that you would marry a poor man—"

"Yes, if I loved him."

"She means Malvey. But she isn't going to get him!" Denise made up her mind.

Aloud she said, ever so sweetly: "What sounds very beautiful and absurd. But would it apply when a woman comes down to hard tacks? I know it that the man would fall in love with—even if he were poor—would be pretty attractive? And fascinating men are run on, and flattered, and made to believe that they can marry almost anybody . . . With all money! I mean, women are so crazy over money that they'll go to almost any lengths to get it. It seems to think they've got the right to grab anybody if they themselves have plenty of shekels!"

This sounded involved, but at the time time pointed. Had she gone too far? Should her hand have been cooled?

So, therefore Corinna could reply, Denise hurried on with the topic.

"You'd be insane to turn down a rich man for some poor and romantic attachment. With your good looks—and charm!" (Denise lay it on a bit to cover up her faux-pas!) "and judging from the success you had at the ball, you could make a fine marriage. Jack Van Tuyl, who's even more critical than Mortimer and quite a friend of my own, said he liked you immensely."

Corinna tossed her head in the grand manner.

"Much obliged to em. I'm sure! But I'm very well off."

You mean you don't like these boys?"

They were very pleasant to me, said she non-committally.

"They're certainly run on enough," said Denise, rather nettled. (Stooping to conquer was all very well, but the goodwill of this beauty specialist wasn't so totally important!)

Ensued a pause. Corinna's hands moved carefully with her implements.

Moved by an uncontrollable curiosity, Denise heard herself inquire, reverting to the topic:

"Then you're all set and ready to marry a poor man, is that so?"

In the green light of the manicure lamp, Corinna smiled faintly, inscrutably, at her interrogator. Just such a smile is pictured on the features of the Mona Lisa.

"How can you tell? He may be rich . . . he may be poor. He might be even a millionaire; Quien sabe?

When Denise had gone, to return in three days' time for the specially imported shampoo, Corinna sat alone in her little booth and pondered acutely upon that conversation.

How much had it to do with Malvey?

That Miss Van Wyck was going to leave no stone unturned in order to annex him, she had no doubt.

The fluttering disquiet was at her heart again, a veritable torment. Why must one suffer so, because one loved?

That studio party given by the Countess de Sentalvos' Malvey had been oddly reticent about the incidents of that evening.

He hadn't spoken of Denise Van Wyck at all.

Eager to hear if he had praised his boss' niece?

Her scrambling to her. She's clever. And so pretty! Malvey's only human and susceptible to her flattery.

He had said, in a half embar-

BIG DRIVE ON CENSORSHIP IS PLANNED

Move to Restore Liberal Traditions to Be Launched in Ford Hall

Faneuil hall and other public halls have been public in name only in recent years," says the executive committee of Massachusetts Civil Liberties Committee in announcing a meeting in Ford hall next Wednesday at 8 p. m. to protest censorship.

"They must be made public in fact," continues the statement issued by the executive committee of the organization. "Next Wednesday's meeting" continues the statement, "is the first step in an organized campaign to restore to the public Boston's tradition of free assembly for education through publication, of the facts of the censorship and by changes in the law we hope to help lift the blanket of suppression which makes Boston the laughing stock of the civilized world.

"Advance censorship of books, plays, speakers and meetings is unfair and unAmerican. Every book and play should have a chance to be heard in its entirety by judge and jury before action is taken regarding it. City Hall at present sets itself up as an arbitrary control over licensed hall owners who are prevented, under threat of license revocation or fear of harassing by police, building and fire inspectors from renting halls for a meeting or speaker City Hall may censor undesirable.

The permit restrictions for Boston Common speakers which have been so seriously abused by the authorities, should be abolished and the Common restored to its historically valuable function as a place of assembly and speech as Hyde Park in London, is."

Those who will speak at the Ford Hall meeting include Mayor Thomas J. McGrath of Quincy, Joseph Lee, president of Massachusetts Civic League, Prof. Zechariah Chafee, Jr. of Harvard Law School and Dr. Abraham Myerson of Tufts Medical school John S. Codman will preside.

Ready Smile Keeps Him Out of Jail

Twice now in two weeks, the ready smile of Roscoe Stimpson, Suffolk Superior Court defendant, has kept him out of jail on an assault and battery charge.

Two weeks ago Stimpson was fined $50 for punching Charles White of Charlestown. So cheerfully did the prisoner accept the penalty, that Chief Justice Hall gave him a fortnight to raise the money.

Today, Stimpson, still cheerful, was back in the dock. He told the judge that he had only $5 able to scrape together.

"You smiled me once into giving you time," said Justice Hall severely.

Stimpson beamed agreement.

His amiability was catching. The judge chuckled too.

"Well," he said, "I'll take the $25 away from you and we'll give you another two weeks of grace on the strength of this morning's smile."

Margaret Dencke in Tufts Recital

Miss Margaret Dencke, choirmistress of Lady Margaret Hall, Oxford, Eng., will give a lecture and recital for the students of Tufts College on Friday, Nov. 1, in Goddard Chapel. This will be the third visit to the college.

Miss Dencke began her musical studies under Miss Eugenie Schumann, the daughter of the great composer, Robert Schumann, and the great pianist, Clara Schumann.

East Milton Church Statues Dedicated

The Rev. James J. McGovern, S. J., of the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Boston, officiated at a dedication ceremony at St. Agatha's Church, East Milton when two white marble statues representing the Sacred Heart of Jesus, were placed, one on either side of the church entrance.

The statues were donated by two parishioners, Charles B. Kelly and George R. Gilman, Fr. Eugene A. Carney, pastor of the church blessed the statues at the benediction ceremony.

STATE LEGION PARTY HOME, ALL ELATED

Enthusiastic Over the Newspapers' Aid in Winning 1930 Convention

Enthusiasm over victory in obtaining the National Legion convention for Boston in 1930, the enthusiastic delegates to the Louisville convention today debarked at the Merchants and Mystic pier South Boston ave. from the steamship Fairfax.

"Advertising and newspaper publicity won for Boston and New England," said Department Commander John J. O'Connell of Amherst.

"This, together with noble teamwork on the part of our delegates, forced our only rival, Los Angeles, to amend its placards. 'Los Angeles invites you,' to read 'Los Angeles invites you to Boston.'"

LOSE RACE TO FUNERAL

A touch of sadness was noted in the landing when a group of girls from Foster P. Edwards post left their race to attend a funeral of one of their members.

Miss Inez Hendrikus of Newton was the only "casualty." She suffered a number of small powder burns during a cannon exhibition. She took her hurts stoically, however, and exhibited a pet alligator she had acquired on the trip when the boat docked.

CALL OFF PARADE.

Miss Gertrude Lorton, a senior vice-commander of South End Post, was the "veteran conventioner."

The best convention we ever had," she said. She was accompanied by Miss Lillian Gately of Bessie P. Edwards Post and Miss M. Agnes Herbert, sister of Col. John F. J. Herbert of Worcester Post.

A parade planned for today was called off by radio in a message from Commander O'Connell to Acting Commander Matthew Boyle. The delegates were tired, he explained.

Dr. William H. Griffin of South Boston greeted the returning delegates in behalf of Governor Allen.

E. BOSTON MAN DIES IN CRASH INTO TREE

Two Others Seriously Injured as Auto Is Forced Off Post Road

Stonington Ct. Oct 7. An East Boston man was killed and two others seriously injured here when their automobile struck a tree on the Boston Post road and overturned after being forced off the highway by another automobile.

Anthony Mucci, 24, was the person killed. His cousin, Alfred Mucci, 29, and Alfred's father, Guanato Mucci, 59, both of East Boston, are at the Westerly, R. I., hospital, the former with a compound leg fracture and the latter with a fractured arm.

Joseph Fanara, also of East Boston, driver of the car, and Fred Mucci Guanato Mucci, an occupant, escaped injury. Fanara was arrested by Coroner Edward P. McKay on a charge of manslaughter.

After striking the tree the automobile turned over several times, hit a truck operated by R. W. Foster of Scituate, Mass., and finally landed in a field.

J. B. Clifford Dies at Wheel of Auto

James B. Clifford, known to countless Harvard students through his 28 years as a designer and cutter in a Harvard sq. tailor shop was stricken with a heart attack while driving his automobile in Battle st., and was pronounced dead when he was brought to the Cambridge Hospital.

Dry Chantey Wallops Speakeasy a Blow

The "speakeasy" gets thanked on at last in ringing deep sea measure.

Stanton H. King, veteran salt now superintendent of the Sailors Haven, Charlestown, has set a most prohibition plea to words and music.

It is King's theory that John Barleycorn has had an unfair advantage in that drinking songs have monopolized catchy airs and effective phrases.

The Charlestown man hopes that his new chantey, titled "The Speakeasy," may rival "How Dry I Am" and "The Little Brown Jug," a popular melody when he-men get together in singing mood.

If King is right, the day is almost here when deep sea crews hauling at the mains'l sheets or walking around the capstan, will time their efforts to the semi-ments of his chorus:

"Moonshine breezy to speak low
Makes you sad, yes makes you sad
Moonshine whiskey, cripe I say
Drives you mad, yes, drives you mad

Keep away from the speak-easy
Shoot at sight, shoot at sight,
Keep away from the speak-easy
Evil it is, yes, hoot it is!

Liquor is the devil's brew
Shoot at sight, shoot at sight
Shoot on sight or shun it slightly more sentimental and

Why nearly everbody's system needs Phillip's Milk of Magnesia

Reduce acids of system - Instantly

MAGNESIA is marvelous for the system that's too acid. And Phillips Milk of Magnesia is magnesia in its best form. It's easily the foremost anti-acid.

It soon has a sour stomach all serene again, free from that unpleasant gas and thoroughly alkalinized.

But this perfect anti-acid does as important a service for the bowels as for the stomach. Phillips Milk of Magnesia has ideal laxative properties.

Perhaps you did not know that Possibly you are taking something needlessly strong to assist elimination. Most of us live today in a manner that makes the system lazy. It needs occasional help. This gentler aid is just as effective as the things one hesitates to take for the purpose.

An acid condition is at the bottom of lots of systemic disorders. So before you resort to dieting, try this simple means of restoring the alkaline balance. One spoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia neutralizes many times its volume in acid. It is a delightful—and an effective—way of relieving the discomfort that follows overeating; heartburn; biliousness. It is ideal, too, in the upsets that come to children. No persuasion is needed for them to take this milk-white, creamy emulsion and nothing could be better than its mild corrective action in the stomach and in the bowels.

Phillips Milk of Magnesia has many uses in almost any household and it is one product that should be in every family medicine cabinet. Be sure you get Phillips Milk of Magnesia as this is the genuine prescriptional product.

Milk of Magnesia is always a liquid. Phillips is the genuine.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified remedy that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and checks the germ-growth.

Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks and destroys the germ-laden poisons and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed to relieve coughs, colds, bronchial irritation and even incipient consumption (tuberculosis of the lungs) or other germ diseases of the throat and lungs, if taken according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv)

CREOMULSION
FOR THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

MUSCLETONE is a new discovery in medical science. You no longer dose the system with violent or nauseating drugs. The treatment is applied directly to the part affected and by inunction neutralizes accumulated toxins. Yet it is perfectly harmless. You literally feel the pain leaving.

We urge only that you make this test. MUSCLETONE is now obtainable at any drug store. Buy it today. Use one half the bottle and if you are not amazed return the remaining half to the druggist and he will refund your money. The price is $1.00.

Dr. Chapins
Muscletone

When a man has rheumatism so badly that it is downright agony to even move and seems suddenly to regain complete freedom from pain the chances are that he has learned the secret of MUSCLETONE.

Almost a million people now—by word of mouth recommendation—seem to have found complete relief through this new discovery of treatment by inunction. So far as the painful part of rheumatism, sciatica, lumbago, neuralgia, lameness of muscle, bones and joints is concerned you may forget it with the first application. Relief actually comes in 7 to 10 minutes. The photographs above were taken only 30 minutes apart. Chronic cases and those unusually severe will of course require continued treatment for a while but isn't it wonderful that the relief you seek is now so easily obtained?

We Asked 5000 Leading Business Men

what they thought of

The New England Business Telephone Directory . . .

Their written replies, representing 361 different lines of business, showed conclusively that the first issue, published a year ago, was received with favor by business and professional men. A few of their statements we quote below:

"We use this directory in opening up new business. It has opened several accounts for us."—Wholesale Hardware Dealer

"Used in telephoning for credit rating to various parts of New England when there is no time to write."—A Boston Bank

"We use it in making reservations for guests at other hotels."
—Several Hotels

"Is of great assistance to our purchasing department; we are isolated from supply centers and this book is most valuable in locating supplies."
—A Cotton Manufacturer

"Has been of great help to us in Police work, in locating officials in towns where no organized force is maintained."—A Rhode Island Police Chief

"People often ask us where to buy articles which we do not carry, and we use the directory as a guide."—A Lumber Dealer

We suggest that business men examine the new directory. It is larger and more inclusive than the first issue, and otherwise improved from suggestions received. It is now a complete directory of business telephones in New England.

The second issue of this book, revised and enlarged, has just been delivered to business subscribers. If you haven't received your copy, our Local Manager will be glad to supply it.

Cubs Are 6 to 5 Choice to Capture Series Opener

EVENING AMERICAN SPORTS

QUINN MAY HURL FOR A'S IN OPENER

They have named the Cubs 6 to 5 to win the opening game and will give or take even money on the whole series. There isn't a great deal of heavy money tossed out on the World Series ball game any more, but it is popped and flitting in quite [illegible].

Ticket speculation is what the boys call nifty. The [illegible] which cost originally $4 apiece for bucks, [illegible] and [illegible] located well.

The middleman on the spot is also offering 50 for [illegible] and [illegible] any [illegible] for [illegible]. New York from the series has had a most salutatory effect. This will be no cut and dried affair. It will be a howling riot, both in Chicago and [illegible].

The only thing [illegible] for [illegible] will be Babe Ruth. And even [illegible] absence will not hurt. There are plenty of boys on both clubs who can nudge that baseball out of sight any time they happen to get hold of one.

SHOULD BE GOOD SERIES

As a [illegible] the [illegible] ought to [illegible] of the best. Two new [illegible] have been [illegible] season will be obliterated in two sectors where the battle [illegible] fought.

As a [illegible] it [illegible] not a measure up to anything we had [illegible] before. No team [illegible] ever matched a [illegible] in [illegible] be. Both have plenty of pitching. Good ones. They set up a [illegible] generally and offensively. It looks like a 5&10 proposition for the blow-off with National bunting [illegible] the gang that gathers the best.

A lot of talk there has been [illegible] about lack of courage on the part of one team or the other. But that's all rot. It takes a real ball club to run away from any league and have a pennant in camp for a month before [illegible]. The Athletics have taken one [illegible] American and the Cubs [illegible] National.

Individuals there may be who will not come through when the test comes but there are also plenty of courageous athletes sprinkled around to deliver when the faint-hearted fail. And the faint heart is rare in baseball the boys with the weak ticker rarely get up to the big show. The stumbling is too much.

NO ALIBIS POSSIBLE

There can be no alibis when this gold war is over. Both teams come to the opening with all hands sound and fit. The pitchers have had a month of rest. Their arms should all be nursed back to the well known spring efficiency. The infield and the ball have had four weeks for patching and mending.

The Cubs will not have Pat Malone, Hartnett in [illegible] of the [illegible]. But then they didn't have him all year. He will be around though, to hit in the crisis which is one of his best habits, or worst, if you look at it from a Philadelphia angle.

Managers Mack and McCarthy have had plenty of time to figure out the opposition, to plan the strategy so much talked about, but so seldom in evidence. A smack over the fence, or a pitcher with a good hop on his fast one comprises most of the strategy. If you'll look back over the chronicles.

Two good ball clubs in perfect fettle meet tomorrow in what [illegible] rises that means rain and gloom for both with a share of extra burial going to the team that can put four wins into history.

Nothing could be fairer than that. Neither manager will name his opening pitcher yet, but it's almost a solid clinch that Connie Mack will start a right hander, and Moses Grove for the second day. Unless, perchance, Robert Moses has had a rush of desires and ferocity to the head.

QUINN MAY START

Manager Mack will use Charlie Root or Guy Bush, two young men who stood the National League sluggers on their foreheads when winning was important. Don't be surprised if the shrewd C. Mack sends Ed Jack Quinn to the hill for this opening. That brother of Noah has just the stuff to trouble the free swinging Cubs.

The first game will mean a lot, because the clubs are evenly matched. Grabbing it should and probably will be the bitterest wrestle of the series.

Whatever happens tomorrow, we still think the As will win this collision, though we have no better reason than perhaps, those who argue that the Cubs can't lose. Another day and it will all be in the lap of the gods.

GANSON MEETS M'GILL ON MAT

Jack Ganson [illegible] mat [illegible] in [illegible] town to complete [illegible] training for his finish match with Pat McGill, Irish grappler, at the Grand Opera House on Thursday night.

Jack has taken on weight until he tips the beam at 215. He was never stronger or faster than he is now. He believes he will make a clean slate this season and wants to start right on the Wakefield Irishman.

McGill is expected to come to Boston tomorrow and take a light work-out Wednesday for the final prep.

Joe Wagner who is quite a favorite [illegible] Post [illegible] will make the attempt to top the won and [illegible] of Bob Bibber McCoy in the semi-final.

Axle Andreasson youthful Swedish grappler, will attempt to pin the shoulders of Al Thomas, Syrian strong man, to the mat in the opening bout.

Should Quinn get out, though, the chances of Carrigan returning would be very slim.

While both Boston teams finished in the cellar, neither is an [illegible] were weak. A few players would make each a pretty good club.

THE result in each race was a very pleasing to Boston. The fans here as elsewhere except New York, had [illegible] a World Series being staged in a "Big Town" every year and were more than [illegible] to see [illegible] Athletics. As a [illegible] the

The biggest [illegible] in the American League was Cleveland. The Indians were a unanimous choice to finish in the second division, probably last, before the race started. They ended up in third, one game in front of the St. Louis Browns. A recruit pitcher, Wes Ferrell, who won 21 games was responsible for the unexpected showing of the Indians.

IN the National League, the Phillies furnished the big upset by finishing in fifth place, after several years in the basement. John McGraw made the Pirate boys go [illegible] Jerry O'Dell who won the National League batting championship.

The big disappointments were Detroit, Washington and Cincinnati. All these teams were expected to finish in the first division. Washington came in fifth and the Tigers sixth in the American League, while the Reds finished seventh in the senior circuit.

Cuici and Gusa Tied in N. E. P. G. O. Tourney

THE annual New England P. G. O. championship opened today [illegible] Mt. River, [illegible] Ct. [illegible] Point Judith, R. I., were leading the field, tied with 69s.

Louis Cuici of New Britain, Ct., was in third place with a 71, while Dave Hackney of Merrimac Valley, Bobby Crowley of Kenoza and Massey Miller, another pro from the Nutmeg State, were tied for third place with 73's.

Cuici and Gusa played beautiful golf to get their 69's. Gusa had a one-stroke lead over Cuici at the turn going out in 35, but the little Mill River professional came home in 33, which was a stroke better than Gusa's low-par number.

Dave Hackney from the Merrimac Valley had a remarkable 73, for he got off to a 5, 6, 4, start after which he "floured" every hole to the turn, which he reached in 39, but he came back in 33 the feature of which was his eagle on the long 17th where he came within inches of holing out his second shot.

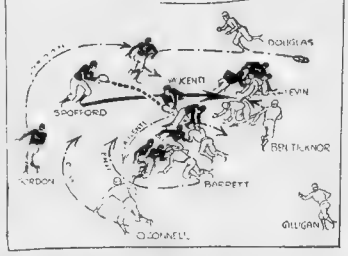
The accompanying photo shows at least one instance where the Harvard line failed to break through its weak Bates opponents in Saturday's game. With the exception of Capt. Red Barrett, there is not a Crimson lineman beyond the scrimmage line. And, but for the failure of Capt. Louder to get Ben Ticknor, who was playing out of the line, Spofford would have been on his way to a substantial gain, for Bates has opened up a fine hole for the ball carrier.

TIGERS TO PLAY AT GARDEN



Villanova to Get Blast From B. C. Musicians

There have been many inquiries recently as to the whereabouts of Boston College's band. A year ago this musical organization, debecked in bright maroon and gold jackets with white flannel pants and hats, proved almost as much entertainment for the fans as the games.

According to an announcement from the Heights the B. C. musicians will be ready to face Villanova next Saturday. Coach Ecker will put his squad through formations this week. The B. C. band will be ready to out blast ten tons of T. N. T. next Saturday.

UMPIRES FOR SERIES PICKED

Chicago, Oct. 7 William Dineen and Roy Van Graflan will act as American League umpires for the world series.

Dineen, ex-big league pitcher, is a veteran of 20 years of officiating, but Van Graflan has been on the staff only three years and will be making his debut in the championship classic.

William J. Klem and Charlie Moran have been chosen by President John A. Heydler to serve for National League umpires for the world series.

Klem, veteran of a quarter century of National League service, will be making his 18th series and Moran, who has 12 years of big league service behind him, his second series.

B. U. FAVORITE TO DEFEAT VERMONT

BOSTON UNIVERSITY is overwhelming favorite to take Vermont into camp Saturday as the Catamounts have dropped their last two contests to New York University by scores of 77 to 0 and 87 to 0. Vermont's showing in the season's opening games was mild and are much the worse for wear.

B. U. has shown little drive as yet and consequently will not underestimate Vermont but will make every effort to break into the win column Saturday.

Phil Hostetter, Irv Winer, Rolly Hermann, Sol Hertz and Jack Cirone did not participate in the New Hampshire game but will be ready to get into the scrap Saturday. In addition to these men returning, the usual Huge squad will be out in uniform for the first time here.

Although Nelson may not be able to get into the Vermont game, his presence will aid the morale of the squad.

Jimmie Dincolo, Santo Marino and Cy Perkins were the shining lights for B. U. in the Wildcat clash.

Dincolo again played through the entire contest without relief and at the rate he is going may set up a new record for modern "iron men" to shoot at. Jimmie is a tower of strength in the middle line. Terror Lee may be bad news to opposing backs this season, but he's a side of fine.

Santo Marino, pulled his work on by Arlington with ease. I boots in three tackles which used up all to Hohoams. They will be seeing a lot through next season, and Marino who has 12 years of the team but when opposing backs are hit by the diminutive guard they fall and fall hard.

Gilligan Rises As New Harvard Star

By RALPH GILROY

EASTERN football arenas saw only one major upset on last Saturday when a usually strong and brilliant Georgetown team was forced to bow to a somewhat unknown Western Maryland eleven.

HARVARD got little better than a [illegible] from the opening kickoff against the University of Maine and with Chesley Amos flashing some classy running and passing opened scoring against her Maine opponent [illegible] one yard [illegible] Yale [illegible] Holy Cross [illegible] Fordham eleven and Glen O'Donnell's Purple team.

DARTMOUTH GAVE a little more evidence of her future [illegible] when Jack Cannell's war [illegible] Hobart College opponent [illegible] Hobart seems to have a fine line as well as stellar backfield this year [illegible] with a wealth of fine reserves [illegible] Harvard and Yale [illegible] to think about in looking [illegible] to their future encounter.

All Maroons seems headed [illegible] another banner year, and if [illegible] an opportunity to get started, will give the Crimson and Blue [illegible] a terrible afternoon trying [illegible] to stop him.

"BILL" ROPER down in Tigertown must have spent a miserable afternoon watching his cubs pull a close game out of the fire, last Saturday against Amherst. Bill has practically a veteran line from tackle to tackle but the Tiger ends and backs will prove an uncertain quantity.

In any case, Bill will have plenty of hard work to keep him busy on these nice fall afternoons.

Chick Meagan has another classy aggregation, only at New York University as per 26 to 0 setting over West Virginia Wesleyan, forcibly demonstrated. With a big, powerful line led by Frank Grant, and a light, shifty running backfield, bolstered up by a versatile running and passing attack, Chick should go a long way in the direction of an Eastern championship.

Agnes model of black velvet. Notice how it clings to the head at the sides and back and falls into a soft, simple drape that is at once flattering and feminine. Highness, of course is the watchword and must also be applied to the veil as well. Suppose the wearer of such a model has to be seen hidden under a veil?

Straight as a Bluebeard model of black satin. It is true, always true, the influence of the drape and the bow in back bowing gracefully to the long backline of the frock.

If brims are used they are softer and not so uncompromising as formerly. And they are usually longer on one side.

The outstanding change in the realm of millinery is that there are no longer to be any outstanding changes. The Truth

About Training Critical Faculties

By ELINOR GLYN.

HOW frivolous I was yesterday, girls! But I am always trying to keep Romance in the world — the personal appearance of men and women is such a big factor in it. The curious influence of fashion is that it can make any grotesque turn without "revulsion" (you remember, girls, that word I invented?) if there is no suggestion given to the subconscious mind of anything disgusting.

For instance, when women wore ridiculous bustles which turned them into hotentots, men never put off, because that contained no nasty suggestion, and did not affect their faces. But suppose [illegible] suddenly started reducing their noses. That would suggest to the subconscious mind that the cause was either disease or drink, both revolting things. Then the subconscious mind would feel disgust in consequence.

This is the reason so many women in self [illegible] among them I greet the present male haircut, and since it suggests to the subconscious mind a skin disease on the head of a convict. Now beards are very ugly too, but do not give rise to anything worse than cumbersome old fashions, there is no association of ideas or crime with them, hence the subconscious mind only prompts the conscious one to decide that they are back numbers, and had better be dispensed with.

Everything is in suggestion, and the root of the suggestion. Do not forget the principle Gracie and Maudie, when you come to [illegible] yourselves "If by any [illegible] [illegible] such and such." It [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

CALLING TURN ON MARKET DIFFICULT

By FRANK H. MELOON
Financial Editor

Calling the turn on the stock market is difficult. It is easy enough to predict when the market is high that a break is coming. It is harder to call the turn within 24 hours, but this was achieved by William T. Yetman who 12 years ago was an expert newspaper for the Boston evening American. Mr. Yetman is now chief statistician for a New York and Boston stock Exchange house.

Mr. Yetman's study of the general situation was so convincing, as sent to customers, that we reproduced it with due credit in this column, and thus extended the field for the warning given on the eve of the big break. Several years ago, when the big bull market started, a Boston man now in New York, James J. Fayne, called the turn and at the same time gave a list of 40 stocks to buy, every one of which advanced in the next few days, and continued late as leaders of the market.

Secretary George B. McGinty of the Interstate Commerce Commission tells me that suggest body has issued nothing on the so-called Porter railroad consolidation plan. This disposes of rumors to the contrary. Plan after plan for railroad mergers is put forward, only to be pounded mercilessly and made the object of dispute and wrangles that arrive at nothing constructive. Whatever rise the rails have had must be largely attributed to the O'Fallon case decision, which stands beyond appeal.

Theoretically this would enable the railroads to make drastic upward revisions in freight charges in New England and elsewhere. The fact is that automotive competition is so strong that no such revision is expected.

Henry F. Long, Massachusetts commissioner of corporations and taxation, points out that "rights" which have accrued during the past two years on American Telephone stock and bonds are taxable when sold, even though the dividends are tax free in this State. He estimates there are at least 40,000 individual American Telephone stockholders in Massachusetts. On examination of returns he finds that many of them have not reported gains from sale of these rights. It is to belief that they were tax free. Those who have not so reported will be assessed at the regular rate plus interest at the rate of 6 per cent from Oct. 1.

Mr. Long might add that, for the angular state of mind of one of our early legislatures, American Telephone would not be a "foreign" corporation, but would be today incorporated in Massachusetts, greatly to the advantage of this Commonwealth. With housing among the many "bans" of the day, the object is unfavorable for extended discussion, but a bit might be written about it.

Strength in rubber is based on unconfirmed reports from London that negotiations had been received looking toward the formation of a selling pool by the Dutch and English. Some reports had it that Pres. Seiberling, of Seiberling Rubber Co. and Rubber Manufacturers' Association, and Edgar B. Davis, director of Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., had been discussing with British and Dutch rubber interests the matter of the possibility of an international selling cartel to stabilize rubber at a fair figure. This latter report stated the Dutch welcomed the suggestion whole-heartedly.

The Mr. Davis mentioned is the same who, in reports of a Massachusetts court suit, was said to be influential in affairs of Goodrich. Mr. Davis was a resident of Brockton until he established legal residence in Luling, Texas.

WILDEY BANK MOVES INTO ITS NEW QUARTERS

The most recent case of a savings bank acquiring modern equipment and up-to-date banking rooms is that of the Wildey Savings Bank, which has just moved into new quarters at 5 Bigelow street, a few doors below its former location.

These new quarters represent increased area for the bank with the addition of a number of new features and employes of the bank. According to George E. Tabor, treasurer of the bank, these new quarters have been made both possible and necessary by the increased business which the bank has experienced over the period of the last few years.

The Wildey Savings Bank has for nearly 36 years occupied the first floor of the Boston Young Men's Christian Union at 5 Bigelow st.

The Thomas M. James Company was engaged as the contractor for the bank's new quarters and have arranged them to meet the requirements of the bank's patrons. The entrance front has been treated with Vaxtex stone which is a new product manufactured in Boston. This product is practically free of dampness and one which in Massachusetts is now coming into building favor. The windows and doors are of bronze.

Passing a handsome vestibule one comes to the main public room of the bank, at the right of which is the paying and receiving teller's cage as well as the savings bank life insurance department. Directly at the left of the receiving and paying tellers and directly opposite the entrance is the officers' quarters, with the usual private offices for the bank officials as well as a conference room. The counter screen is of polished mahogany.

The entire space has been arranged for convenience to customers, so as to afford facilities and quarters for employes, for whom ideal conditions have been effected with light and three exposures.

The officers of the bank, Frank F. Cowing, president; Albert E. Chase, Orena A. Marden and George H. Feller, vice presidents; George E. Tabor, treasurer, and Ralph W. Roe, assistant treasurer, are to be congratulated upon the acquiring of these new quarters in which to carry on the bank's business.

Special mention should be made of Mr. Cowing, who is also president of the Boston Young Men's Christian Union and who has been president of the bank since its inception April, 1892. Mr. Tabor, the treasurer, is another member of the staff who has been connected with the bank since it first opened its doors.

MARKET VIEWS OF BROKERS

Clark, Child & Co.—It is possible that the stock market readjustment has been completed, but as yet there is not sufficient evidence that such is the case. Saturday's sharp rally had the characteristics of a normal movement of reaction and was not in a market the main downward trend of which is doubtful. It cannot be considered until indications to the contrary show themselves. On this opinion, the market actually should do well into the middle of this week and possibly longer.

James H. Oliphant & Co.—Considering how much longer and more drastic the liquidation in stocks than that to date readjustment would have called for it may prove possible to say that a genuine improvement without important subsidiary reaction. This was the case following the September bust. Buying power is undoubtedly kept. Money and credit conditions are favorable, particularly with recent liquidation. Altogether market status is encouraging.

Hornblower & Weeks.—Inasmuch as it is quite logical for sentiment to improve in weeks to believe a further betterment can be expected this week. We believe this week's early trading should be decidedly constructive and that a belated selling drive will probably mean the signal for the recovery rally.

Remington Rand's Earnings Larger

New York, Oct. 7.—Estimates have been heard that Remington Rand will show earnings of around $4 a share for the year ending March 31 next, which would compare with slightly better than $1 a share in the two preceding years. The stock has been acting remarkably well in recent sessions, despite the periods of pronounced weakness in the general list. Much importance is attached to the fact that there was a profit of 5 per cent on sales in the June quarter, compared with only 3 per cent in the same period of the preceding year. Part of the buying on all recent reactions is said to have come from interests who were prominent in the stock on several occasions earlier in the year.

POSTAL Telegraph Cable Co. is offering more than $14,000,000 group insurance to 11,000 employes, effective Nov. 1, provided 75 per cent. of eligible employes apply.

THE WORLD OF FINANCE

DON'T SELL WHEN BUYING IS POOREST

What Bank Support Means; Will Money Go Down? Coming Events

By B. C. Forbes

NEW YORK, Oct. 7—The time to stocks is not when everybody else is rushing to sell. The time to sell is when everybody is rushing to buy.

* * *

Just because over-bo o m e d stocks have tumbled disastrously, inflicting serious losses on many speculators, don't conclude that our national prosperity has vanished overnight. It hasn't. Industry and business and agriculture are just as sound at this moment as they were when stocks were excitedly bought at rising prices. The change has consisted of a change of mind in speculative circles.

That such a change of mind was bound to come was freely proclaimed in this column. When it would come no human being could foresee. Only the blind could fail to see. Only the blind could foresee. Only the blind could fail to see that many stocks were selling, not on actual value, but on dreamful hopes. Optimistic speculators were drawn hopes. Optimistic speculators were drawing too heavily on their imagination.

When the yield on favorite common shares was only about 3 per cent and money was costing 9 per cent, the situation manifestly was unwholesome, unpermanent, fantastic. The gulf between dividend returns and the rental price of money was altogether too great.

If Wall Street runs true to form, this week's debacle should be followed by a more or less vigorous recovery. If and when this develops, then it will be for each stockholder to decide for himself how to act. It usually proves good judgment to throw aside stocks on a demoralized market such as we had on Thursday, when 25 representative industrial and utility issues fell 20 points.

The American Bankers' Association does well to recommend a thorough investigation of brokers' loans. The total of $8,804,000,000, the new high record reported by the Federal Reserve Board, and the total of $8,549,383,979 reported by the New York Stock Exchange, should be "broken down" to show a new popular business expression —meaning that these totals should be split into their component parts. It would be extremely useful to know just how many billions are employed to carry stocks purchased on margin, how much is borrowed by investment trusts against their partly-distributed security offerings, etc.

How much money is being borrowed by investment trusts and how much is being left by investment trusts from time to time would also be illuminating. That investment trusts are attracting the notice of legislators is revealed by the agitation at Albany that an official investigation be conducted for the purpose of framing new legislation dealing with them.

Incidentally, although it is known that the flotation of gigantic investment trusts has not over, the cream is off this method of attracting enormous investment capital.

The sponsors of not a few investment trusts have had hard sledding during recent weeks.

The next boom contemplated is in the organization of companies to acquire control of banks. Provided stock market conditions do not forbid, you will see spectacular developments in this direction.

A responsible-sponsored investment trust covering the important field of office appliance companies is on the fire and should be shortly announced.

A new natural gas enterprise of record-breaking magnitude is scheduled to be announced shortly.

National City Bank interests, I learn, have acquired a very substantial interest in the New York, Rio & Buenos Aires Air line, which has landed valuable mail concessions in South America and for which there was delivered this week the largest commercial seaplane ever built in this country.

The writer still believes that money will become considerably easier before the end-of-the-year pinch comes.

Vortex Mfg. Reports Increase in Sales

Vortex Manufacturing Co. reports an increase in September business of 41 per cent over the same month of last year.

The increase in the drinking cup line amounted to 50 per cent and the soda fountain cup line to 28 per cent.

TECHNICAL position of the market had been weakened by the heavy short interest and a substantial rally was due.

McLellan Stores' Sales Are Larger

McLellan Stores Company report sales for September totaling $1,911,537 as against $1,638,780 for the same month last year, an increase of $272,587 or 16.6 per cent. Sales for the first nine months of the year totaled $14,841,314 against $10,782,661, a gain of $4,058,653 or 37.7 per cent.

INVESTMENT TRUST DEALS IN CARRIERS

Details in connection with Railroad Shares Corp, the first investment trust in the management of which a considerable number of officers of leading railroad systems are participating, are being announced by Dominick & Dominick, banking syndicate headed by C. D. Parker & Co., Inc., Boston, and R. E. Wilsey & Co., Inc., Chicago.

The corporation has an authorized capitalization of 4,000,000 shares of no par stock, of which 1,500,000 are to be presently issued, and 2,000,000 shares are reserved for issue under option therefor. Neither directors, officers nor bankers are receiving bonus or management shares from the company.

Railroad Shares Corp. now owns and will acquire additional securities of railroad corporations, of holding companies owning shares of railroad operating companies in the United States of America or the Dominion of Canada, and of companies doing a substantial portion of their business with railroad companies coming within this classification.

The proceeds received from the sale of common shares by the corporation will be devoted to the purchase of securities of this type. The corporation's income is not subject to any management fee.

Prominent holdings of the corporation at present include shares of American Car & Foundry Co., American Locomotive Co., Baltimore & Ohio R. R., Boston & Maine R. R., Canadian Pacific Railway, Chesapeake & Ohio Ry. Co., Great Northern Ry., General American Tank Car Corp., Missouri Pacific R. R., New York Central R. R., New Haven R. R. Co., Southern Pacific Co., Pennroad Corp. and Westinghouse Air Brake Co., with a number of additional holdings of similar character.

Management of Railroad Shares Corporation is vested in a board composed of executives and directors of railroad operating and allied companies, as well as members of leading public utility and banking interests of the financial centers of the country.

This stock is listed on the Chicago Stock Exchange and application will be made to list on the New York Curb Exchange.

ATHENS WATER PROJECT PAYS

Formed three years ago by Ulen & Co. and the Bank of Athens to construct and operate a modern water supply system for the city of Athens, Greece, and surrounding communities, the Societe Anonyme Hellenique des Eaux des Villes d'Athens, Pirse et Environs has just declared a dividend of 5,350,000 drachmas, equal to $7 per share on its capital stock. Ownership is divided equally between Ulen & Co. and the Bank of Athens.

The contract for supplying water to Athens, Piraeus and neighboring towns and villages has 19 years to run. Beginning with 3½ gallons per capita daily the water system being developed by Ulen & Co. is now delivering 14 gallons. In 18 months it is estimated that the capacity will be raised to 17½ gallons per capita daily, or only slightly below New York city's daily average consumption, which has proved profits to the operating company.

The undertaking is notable from both historical and engineering viewpoints. The water is brought from the famous plains of Marathon and in the reconstructed system the engineers have utilized the aqueduct built 2000 years ago by the Roman Emperor Hadrian.

So strong and thorough was the work of the Roman engineers in building Hadrian's aqueduct that the Americans found that only "patching" here and there was necessary to put the ancient unit in the new system. In addition to the fresh water from the plains of Marathon, the water for sprinkling the streets of Athens is pumped from the Aegean Sea.

An interesting feature of the building of the Athenian water works is that many places the American engineers have used as the most readily available material and with little regard according to their reports—the same beautiful Grecian marble of which the Acropolis is built.

G. C. Murphy Sales Show Good Increase

G. C. Murphy Co. reports local sales for September of $1,335,918 as compared with $1,045,605 for the same month last year, an increase of $290,313, or 27.7 per cent.

Sale for the first nine months of the year totaled $10,312,915, against $7,840,446, an increase of $2,733,469, or 36.5 per cent.

Invisible Items Explain Mystery in Broker Loans

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, Oct. 7—Brokers' loan reports of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York run so contrary to popular expectations in recent weeks that there is a widespread disposition to question the validity of the statistics.

Of course, the cynical suggestion that the figures have been deliberately manipulated may be dismissed as patently absurd. And yet the Bank of New York's latest reported does not accurately reflect the aggregate amount of credit tied up in security speculation. In addition, bank loans against security collateral to their own customers must be considered. But there are additional invisible items, which elude this statistician, because they do not go through regular reporting channels.

Accordingly, the senior officer of one of the great New York banks believes that, contrary to the reported loan totals, which showed advances in brokers' loans to an unprecedented peak, brokers' loans have actually been declining in the last fortnight. This banker admits that the visible items have increased, but contends that his familiarity with the inside of bank operations convinces him that this increase has been more than offset by a decrease in invisible items.

The invisible items include loans made directly to investment banking houses, which are not connected with the Federal Reserve System, by foreign banking firms. These foreign advances have been heavily depleted in recent weeks. With the reduction of these invisible loans there has been a shifting to visible reported loans. The Hatry incident in London was perhaps more serious than generally realized on this side, and resulted in the calling back of funds. It also precipitated heavy London selling of American securities, and was the immediate immediate cause of the drastic liquidation at the New York Stock Exchange. Besides, there was withdrawal of some funds by continental lenders. France has heavy deposits in New York, and with evidence of tightening of the Parisian money market has been calling in some funds for abroad.

There are domestic invisible items also in the total of brokers' loans. Not a few corporations and specialists have been making loans directly to brokers, instead of making them through banks and paying the banks a substantial fee for the service. The New York Curbing Brokers' Association, in order to discourage bootleg lending by non-banking leaders, raised the fees and stipulated that no sums under $100,000 be lent by members of the association for customers. To evade these restrictions, some bootleg lenders have cut out the middleman, and have dealt directly with brokers. These loans are not included in the weekly figures reported by the Federal Reserve Bank.

In well informed banking quarters, the fact that railroads are run, however, retarded the rate of wearing out old equipment. The payment of one of the largest trans-continental trunk lines, in a message to this column, points out: "While there has been some stimulation in the purchase of equipment and cuts on account of increased earnings, it is a fact that through improved maintenance the railroads are holding their equipment in fine condition and as there has been a surplus at all times it has neither in fact nor ahead of us any material increase in equipment and power purchases over what has obtained in the number of years, purchases tending rather to larger capacity and increased efficiency."

"I think this also applies to rail. As a general thing railroads have kept full pace with regard to rail replacements and have not stinted in this respect."

In the light of last week's panicky selling, it is reassuring to know that there is no credit shortage in this country. Such tightness as exists results from banking policy rather than from a shortage of reserves. The Federal Reserve is still deliberately immobilizing gold through encouraging the curtailment of gold certificates. The Federal Reserve has sought to restrain the expansion of the speculative bubble, which it hopes at length would burst. It has tried for many months to put on the brakes. To change the figure of speech, it knew the patient was feverish, and sought through banking remedies to massage down the patient; who seemed likely to burn up from excitement.

The technique of the Federal Reserve may have been faulty, but its aim was commendable. In Wall Street there has been a feeling that the System lacked powerful leadership since the passing of Benjamin Strong.

Dominion Stores Offering Rights

Stockholders of the Dominion Stores, Ltd., have been offered the right to subscribe to additional common stock at a purchase price of $30 per share, to stock of record Oct. 18.

The subscription will be in the ratio of three new shares for each four shares now held.

Stock Increase of Grant Is Approved

Stockholders of the W. T. Grant Co. have approved an increase in the capital stock from 550,000 shares to 2,000,000 shares, this action is preliminary to the 2-for-1 stock split up and the offering of additional shares to stockholders in the ratio of one new share of each $10 shares held.

The Show at the Garden

Radio, Marvel of the Century and Newest Instrument of Democracy

ADVANCE notices in the newspapers have spoken of the Radio Exposition as for "radio fans," and have estimated the number of "fans" who will visit Boston Garden while it continues.

But aren't we ALL radio enthusiasts?

The slogan of the industry used to be "radio in every home." It won't be long before that vision is realized.

Study, at the Garden, the screen-grid tube, most progressive recent step in the advancement of the marvel of the century.

But EVERYTHING about radio is interesting.

Most wonderful of all is the fact that the development we see here has taken place within a few years. The first transatlantic message was sent and received in 1902; broadcasting, which is radio as most of us know it, is scarcely twelve years old.

Bad Manners

Brockton Fair's Treatment of the State Auditor

THE management of the Brockton Fair, inviting the Governor and other State officials to be present on Governor's Day, for the second time failed to include the State Auditor among its guests.

The auditor, Alonzo B. Cook, appears to be a sort of "lone wolf" in Massachusetts politics.

But he IS the State auditor and as such he represents the people in their State Government.

Always opposed by the Republican "organization," Auditor Cook nevertheless has been renominated by Republicans. Always a special and peculiar target of the opposition party, he has been elected time and again by the people.

In an attempt to slight A. B. Cook, the Brockton Fair management slighted and offended those whom he represents.

It looks like small potatoes.

'Plan for Snow Removal'

Wouldn't It Freeze You?

THE Selectmen of Northboro may be efficient enough but it seems to us they lack the human touch which we had supposed necessary to success in politics. They have very little feeling for the other fellow.

Central Massachusetts was on the wire yesterday, reporting an apple tree in bloom, and Maine was countering with a similar report about a rose bush, when all of a sudden George Chapdelaine was heard from.

M. Chapdelaine is Northboro's superintendent of highways. He had heard from the Selectmen, his superior officers, and was out with a Plan for Snow Removal!

Northboro's lovely Main Street is part of the Boston-Worcester State boulevard and so Northboro is not worrying about that. What Northboro wanted everyone to know is that the new tractor is in good condition and that the road department "plans to keep all other roads, including those in the rural sections, open all Winter." Everything is ready.

All right, all right, all RIGHT, but why bring that up before we have had even a taste of Indian Summer?

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 7—Diary of a modern Pepys: Up to feast on cornmeal and rum and did an epic new Nordic dance in my room. Public plane from the Hudson, out at the last moment to prevent, and watched a tall cowboy and his wife aboard, barking joyously. Not ever have I felt so spiteful.

So on a bus and out in to see Monta Bell's pent house on lower 5th ave. Then northward and presently above the clouds. Bell at the wheel in a day and bed costume and a Mexican hat, swerving and missing a derrick by a margin not to my comfort.

To the cocktail party at Condé Nast's penthouse to greet Jane Dudley, who I had never seen before and who is to dance with Cel Rio here. Also the ubiquitous Mauri Paul and all the curb fling Lardner held dear. Also a lot of beggar but did not find me sober.

One of the gaining streets in the Ghetto's eternal battle is Ridge, trading in disarray northward from the Delancey st. bridge. It is a succession of slices of the old world with beards, patriarchs, winged wives and a showbill immigration trying to adapt themselves to the new. Here modesty is stifled by necessity. Entire families on sultry nights move to fire escapes and sleep in their clothes. An evening event of the street of street fights with turn, the hose on naked shouting children, shrieking to a happy delirium. Narrow sidewalks are outlined with portable little stands selling penny drinks, penny ice cream and penny pieces of watermelon. Woe betide the autoist who traverses the thoroughfare at more than snail-like speed. Streets are the children's playground and an offender will find himself in a shower of melon rinds, unripe fruit, sticks and stones. The Ghetto, displaying its acid little economics, asks no sympathy but refuses to be a target for curiosity.

A crack advertising solicitor in a small Jersey city was offered $200 to transfer his talents to a New York newspaper. He declined, saying he was receiving the same salary where he was. A week later the offer was jumped to $300 and he accepted. Until he received his first pay check he thought they figured on a monthly basis. It was by the week and he often sits up with a start in the middle of the night.

A musical comedy girl who when the Flags of All Nations number is displayed walks out tantric in the manner of a tight rope walker, all wrapped up in the flag of Italy. Then pulls the other flag as she has been elected to succeed the girl who had been Miss Columbia. Her costume is a dog and bird combination. She appeared for rehearsal next day carrying a lorgnette.

Fifteen of us still the "deadline" for crooks at Hughes Gallery mug exhibit now before Fulton st. "Can't you shoot up the town? And the wealthiest person in the world riding too long in the Manley lane diamond district will find a blond lad relieved just on either side of him so quick as that."

In old Evening Mail days I used to stroll through Maiden lane at the lunch hour and loiter before the jewelry windows. I had a wedding acquaintance with several of the plain clothes men, but they never lost their perpetual suspicion. When I loitered too long they always stood by.

New York doctors at least two of them—are not prescribing on much text and quiet to keep in condition. They are advising patients to live dangerously. One on advised must have sat back of me in the theater last night. He spent most of the time tapping time with his foot against my chair.

Fay King, the raconteur, is devoting spare moments to studying whether the eavesdropping motor horn sound like a gruff warning or a parting shriek.

And when she gets that all cleared up she might try to find out why waiters always flutter about a water nymph when you are not thirsty and look out on the window when you are dying for a drink.

Consumer Has the Ball But Not for Long

The BAER Facts

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

PREMIER ARISTIVE BRIAND of France is strong for the United States of Europe.

This is a splendid idea until you think it over.

By making Europe all one nation it would deprive exhibitors of a place to flee to.

It would simplify motoring. A Spanish traffic cop could chase you through France, Germany and Norway without changing his badge.

One good feature would be the elimination of baggage searching at international borders.

Our trunk was rifled so often by inspectors that every time it saw a gendarme it yawned.

A bad feature would be the elevation of a pasha to the presidency of European states. He might bring his harem with him.

An extra session of an All-European congress would be great. Our A. B. C's would be coffee and grunts.

They'd learn something about waterways and roads. The senator from Rumania would get some because Norway grabbed all the harbor appropriations.

The distinguished colleague from Slovakia would hurl a testimonial farewell at his esteemed contemporary from Portugal. It must be terrible to be a thirdclass postman in a Swiss avalanche.

They would also wise up about elections and campaign funds. It's getting so that you cannot even be interested in an electric chair with our having some jealous opponent contest your seat.

Premier Briand discussed this matter with 28 delegates at a luncheon. Only the finest French cookery and rare vintage wines were served.

We do not know whether the cookery or the vintage was responsible for the idea.

So far as future results are concerned, it might as well have been the wine.

The first battle will be over who's going to collect the taxes.

We pointed out once before that the Constitution follows the flag and gets amended.

Europe might start out with a beautiful constitution and wind up with a handful of paper dolls.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

THERE is a moving article by Caroline Singer in a recent issue of Asia. It is called "MADAME HAS COURAGE" and it is about a little French wife who lives in the jungle of the African Ivory Coast.

"She is a drawing room lady," says Caroline Singer, "a delicate, porcelain lady in white slippers and rose-colored frock, and for seven years, isolated in the wilderness, she has waged a silent, stubborn battle against the tropics lest she should be reduced to an inexcusable indifference."

Life is horrible in that jungle clearing. There is heat and drought and pestilence and an odor of rottenness that sifts through to the very soul. Madame has no companionship, outside her husband, save that of dark bodies and darker minds. There are no social standards to quicken her, no hosts of admiring friends to keep her in line. Other white women, under these conditions, go native. But this woman stubbornly clings to remembered ideals. She is frail, but she fights with fiercest weapons than those of the flesh. She fights with her vivid dainty grooming, with orderly habits. Her monotonous meals of canned foods are still served in courses on fine linen. And still she dresses as though for the boulevard—even while she rages at her bons against snakes. FOR THESE HABITS ARE THE SYMBOL OF CIVILIZATION. THEY ARE THE CODE OF HER KIND AND IN THE MIDST OF SAVAGERY, SHE KEEPS THE FAITH.

I thought, as I read about her, of that heap saint they found a white age under the rocks of Emigrant Gap. Chances are you've never seen Emigrant Gap if you do you'll never forget it. It is a pass through the Sierra Nevada. The pioneers came that way in the 50's seeking California. The rest of the way had been hard enough. Deserts and Indians, snow and blistering sun, sickness, starvation. But when they reached Emigrant Gap everything else paled in comparison. Sheer in front of them dropped the cliff and down that cliff they had to go—there was no other way.

Well—they went.

They lowered oxen and carts down by ropes—they went down in rope slings themselves. Beset by storm and starvation, they camped on the rocky plateau at the Horror stalled through the gap. Before relief came they faced cannibalism—they HAD cannibalism. Of their party one old woman still lives. There are things of which she will never speak. But, at the mention of them, something dies, shuddering, in the depths of her fading eyes.

That is the story of Emigrant Gap. And, though they could not foresee the details, those women knew that they must face just such horrors before they ever set forth. Tales had come back—terrible tales. Yet laughing girls and gentle women left sheltered homes to take the trail beside the men they loved. They, too, had courage. And, like that little French woman, they fought the terror with weapons stronger than the flesh. With seeds from mother's garden and cuttings from Aunt Lizzie's hedge—with treasured recipes and crochet patterns—with bright folds of silk and foolish bows.

A while ago a trapper uncovered a bit of that amazing armament by which the West was won. He found a hoop skirt under a pile of stones. It was a tiny affair, made for some supple, size 11 waist—made to encase eager, soft young limbs. The wilderness could not daunt her, that girl who teetered in that hollow hoop. She faced and fought it all with her gallant daintiness. She might have to die—she might have to endure worse than death—but whatever came SHE WOULD DIE A LADY!

Like Madame, she kept the faith.

THE MARRY-GO-ROUND

By HELEN ROWLAND

JUST keeping woman contented has taken up three-quarters of man's time, ingenuity and thinking powers, for the last 20 years.

When careless petting leads a man to matrimony, marriage soon drives him back to careless petting.

Getting married is like flying the Atlantic—a lot of men love to talk about it, who would never think of taking the risk.

The telephone company is always putting on new improvements—but the alibis that come to a woman over its wires never show any possibly or fresh inspiration. Hohum!

A man who loves his wife will do almost anything reasonable to make her happy; but, what she secretly longs to have him do is some of the foolish, desperate and "unreasonable" things he used to do for her before they were married.

In these days of hygiene, surgery and sanitation, a man can live many, many years longer than his grandfather, if he can only survive the week-end motor trips.

With bows to Munchausen: "Yes," said the Sweet Young Thing, "I like him because he is so sensible and frugal and always takes you to those fascinating little dhote places instead of to the fussy, expensive restaurants."

Long, long ago: When the waiter said, "Thank you, Sir," and the lover said, "Will you marry me?"

Every wife believes that Browning was right when he said "God's in his heaven—all's right with the world"—but not until after lunch, on Monday morning.

Attitude to Years

By IDVAL JONES

ONE of Jane Austen's novels, written almost a century ago, has in it a curiously American note. The young persons in it speak with awe of a venerable Colonel on the fringe of their circle.

It is plain to see they are aghast at his great age. Then you read that the Colonel, though well-preserved and dashing, is fully 35 years old.

Most young Americans, if that point were pointed out to them, would remark:

"Well, that is old, isn't it?"

THE relativity of age is now engrossing public interest. The Harper essay on "The Peppermint Years," Stuart Chase's paper on the deadline of 40 in industry, and the survey of the American Federation of Labor on age deadlines have enhanced it.

The fact emerges that nowhere but in America is irrational stress laid on age. A number of reasons are given, but these two are overlooked:

1—Youth worship by the cinema multitudes.

2—Government retirement policy at 65.

The first can't be helped, unless people come to prefer sound acting to juvenile prancing. The last can the second, because you can't do anything with the Government. It insists on ditching men as soon as they get to know anything.

Sims, for example, also Mahan the strategist, and Niblack, the oceanographer. It must have spent millions in aiding these men to develop, but since their whiskers grayed before they reached their intellectual apogee, they were unanably dropped.

THE cruiser Raleigh is bringing back Niblack's body from distant Monaco, where he was director of the ocean laboratory and where the genius of his years did not interfere with appreciation of his talents.

All this is unsound business for us. It is an axiom in industry that the worth of a chemist or an engineer, a Haswell, say, or a Hammond—increases in ratio to his age. But the government seems content to pull the brain to pieces when muscles loses its resiliency. It even refuses to permit men over 35 to enter the postal service.

I BELIEVE the age fallacy began in America at the time of the Klondike rush. That was a rush of youth. The boys surging over the passes—the Chilkoot Pass bodies of the youths lying frozen on the ground. Age it was that remained at staid pursuits at a men with a beard. Youth won the race.

But the man with the beard, returning stained privately at the turned with the gold, for it had endurance.

Since youth is undeniable that more and more elderly Americans are turning to Europe. A man beyond middle years is lost in the tide of youth through the canyons of Manhattan.

He is an "old gentleman." He sighs packs up his trunk and goes him to, say, Nice or Paris, and chooses agood cafe as a grandstand on life.

Fighting to Amuse Men

The Elephants Remind You of Human Wars

ELEPHANTS FIGHTING TO AMUSE AN INDIAN VICEROY

FOR centuries, the world's "great men," kings, emperors, conquerors, have made fighting their serious business.

And when looking for amusement, they naturally turned to fighting in some form.

Cock fighting, dog fighting, bear baiting, badger drawing, bull fighting, prize fighting, and in China even cricket fighting, the insects carefully bred for strength and ferocity, have been included in men's lists of "amusements."

These two pictures show some fighting that still goes on in India, providing intense pleasure to the natives, who appear to retain little fighting capacity of their own, but like to see animals fight.

Battles of this kind are also arranged to amuse foreigners and rulers sent from Great Britain.

In old days, at a Mogul Emperor's Durbar, elephant fights and animals fights of all kinds were part of the program.

The Hindu religion forbids killing any animal, and usually the fighting elephants and camels do not kill each other, although that sometimes happens. Probably the pious Hindus say, "That isn't my fault, the elephant did it."

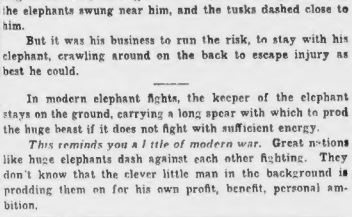
To make the thing look realistic and bloody, since barbarous human beings like blood, the elephants are painted with streaks of vermilion.

In ancient days, each elephant had his own mahout sitting on his back, running serious risks, as the huge trunks of the elephants swung near him, and the tusks dashed close to him.

But it was his business to run the risk, to stay with his elephant, crawling around on the back to escape injury as best he could.

In modern elephant fights, the keeper of the elephant stays on the ground, carrying a long spear with which to prod the huge beast if it does not fight with sufficient energy.

This reminds you a little of modern war. Great nations like huge elephants dash against each other fighting. They don't know that the clever little man in the background is prodding them on for his own profit, benefit, personal ambition.



CAMELS FIGHT DESPERATELY

You can see that the camel fight is in deep earnest. Those beasts, with "vile tempers," need no prodding. They fight for the love of it.

With their long teeth they bite each other savagely.

It is not for "civilized America" to criticize Asiatics that organize these big fights.

We are not ALLOWED to have dog fights or elephant fights publicly.

But by arrangement with politicians that share the profits, prize fights ARE allowed, degrading, brutalizing, gathering together criminals, scattering the worst of diseases.

If a man knocks another down in the street he is put in jail.

If he does that in the prize ring, with big "gate money" and knows how to divide that gate money among politicians who control the laws, instead of being a crime it is a "sport."
